ACCUSED OF $600 STATION ROBBERY

James Dinkens Goes On Trial Today In Circuit Court, As Result Of Robbery Here In 1921

BIG FOUR FREIGHT STOLEN

Prosecutor Outlines Case To Jury, Implicating Dinkens And James Palmer Of The Crime

James Dinkens, Indianapolis resident, and formerly of this city, was on trial today in the circuit court on a charge of grand larceny, being more specifically charged with robbing the Big Four depot in this city in August, 1921, when it is alleged that $600 worth of merchandise was stolen.

The jury which sat in a case here Monday against Aaron Newsome, colored man of Carthage, charged with false pretense, was discharged about six o'clock in the evening when they failed to reach an agreement.

Dinkens was arrested this summer with James Palmer of this city, and each are charged with the crime of robbing the depot. Palmer, it is understood, had confessed following his arrest, and he is to be arraigned later.

Some little trouble was experienced in obtaining a jury, and the following men were chosen about 11 o'clock: Horace Glidden, Elmore Gibson, D. L. Banta, George Krammes, Joe Pike, Frank Fore, Ben Jones, Leslie Miller, E. O. George, R. M. Aldridge, J. S. Stevens and Jesse Winkler.

There were many witnesses summoned by each side of the case, and it was doubtful as to whether the evidence would be completed today.

Prosecutor Ketchum in his opening statement to the jury stated that the state would show by its evidence that Dinkens and Palmer planned to enter the depot on the night of August 7, 1921, and he said that they waited near the depot until a south-bound freight passed in the night.

When the freight was passing, one of the men threw a brick through the window of the station, and the attorney said that the man's hand was cut by glass. The noise of the train offset the noise of falling glass.

The state's attorney stated that the men had planned to rob the safe, as Dinkens needed $100, but when they entered the station they found the safe to be open, and there was no money in it.

He said that the state would show further that the men then entered the freight station, and opened a large box of merchandise, consigned to a dealer at Knightstown, and that they took considerable quantities of the wearing apparel.

The attorney said that the evidence would show further that Palmer removed his share of the loot to his home in this city, and that Dinkens did not maintain any residence, and he could not take his away, and that he hid his share in a field south of the city.

Prosecutor Ketchum stated that some time later Dinkens returned here, and told Fred Clevenger, Jr., that he was welcome to the stuff if he would go out and get it, and that still later when Palmer was in jail on the charge, that Dinkens went to his home and communicated with his wife about the stolen goods that had been stored in the attic at her home.

The defendant dressed up in some of the men's apparel, according to the attorney, and the rest was burned. The detectives of the railroad traced the robbery this summer to the two men, according to the affidavit.

The Fred Clevenger mentioned as receiving the stolen goods, is now serving a sentence at the state reformatory, and he was bought here today to testify on behalf of the state, and was expected to corroborate the facts as set out by the prosecutor in his statement.

RULING AFFECTS GROCERS

Pharmacy Board Holds They Can Not Sell Aspirin

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 9.—The state board of pharmacy today ruled that retail grocers in the state can not legally sell aspirin and similar products, contending that the sale of such is illegal, except when made through licensed pharmacies.

The matter came up on petition of the Indiana Wholesale Grocers' Association, whose representatives met with the board today.

The grocers contend aspirin is a patent medicine and that it may be sold in any place of business. The board argued aspirin is a drug and that the sale of it comes under the powers of the board, according to a state statute.

Thirty days was allowed by the board as a time limit for filing a suit to test the board's regulatory powers.

MORE THAN 2,500 VIEW BIG 4 TRAIN

Spectators Pass Through Service-Progress Special at Rate of Over 600 An Hour

CHILDREN ARE NOT COUNTED

Modern And Old Style Engines And Carved Models Attract Attention During 4-Hour Exhibit

More than 2,500 persons, not counting children under 12 years of age, passed through the cars of the Service-Progress Special of the New York Central Lines, which stopped here Monday afternoon from one to five o'clock, and all of those who visited the train expressed wonder at the exhibition and equipment on display, which showed the evolution of the railroad from its infancy.

An indicator kept count of the people as they streamed through the coaches, and it is estimated that there were at least 1,000 people on the outside viewing the train and exhibit, who did not venture in the line leading to the coaches. The attendance here was a disappointment as those in charge expected 5,000 to see the exhibit.

The mark of 550,000 people was reached on the tour, as the train has been making several states since early in June, and before the route is completed, it is expected that 2,000,000 people will visit it.

The display was wonderful, and was well worth the visit of anyone, and when time came for the train to leave, there were hundreds of people turned away, many not having an opportunity of passing through the coaches.

The train was drawn by the giant locomotive, No. 8,000, the largest freight engine in service on the New York Central, and old No. 999, the engine which pulled the Empire State Express to a record of 112.5 miles an hour. The public was invited to climb up in the cabs of the engines and all of the mechanism was explained. It was a great day for the kiddies, many of whom had their first opportunity of getting inside a locomotive. The great size of No. 8,000 can be seen from the fact that it consumed six tons of coal every hour while in operation. It is automatically fired.

The old DeWitt Clinton, the first train of the New York Central, attracted unusual attention. The engine and one of the coaches are carried on a flat car and the history of the train is explained.

One of the most interesting parts of the exhibit is the models of Ernest Warther, showing locomotive development from the beginning to the present time. The models are hand-carved. The Warther models were made from the blue prints of the original engines and the exhibit is valued at $100,000.

M'CRAV SUITS POSTPONED

Kentland, Ind., Oct. 9.—Hearings on twenty-one suits for judgment on notes of Governor Warren T. McCray and his business associates, were set for October 29, 30 and 31, by Judge George A. Williams in circuit court here today. October 22 was set as the date for the filing of answers in behalf of the governor and other defendants.

THE GREAT GOLD DISCOVERY

POSTOFFICE TO ADD FIFTH CITY CARRIER

Official Word From Washington Will Relieve Crowded Conditions in City Mail Service

TREADWAY WILL QUALIFY

The Rushville postoffice will add a new city carrier to its present force of men, according to official word received from Washington. Compliance with the request for the additional carrier comes after several years waiting, during which time many complaints of delayed mail delivery have been received from all sections of the city.

Griffin Treadway will become the new letter carrier after having acted for several years as a substitute carrier and regularly employed as the parcel post carrier. It will mean that an examination for a carrier will be held soon to name a successor for the parcel post carrier or the vacancy will be filled by appointing some one from the waiting list.

Several months ago a petition was presented to the postoffice here by persons affected by the late delivery of mail, and an inspector from Washington investigated the conditions here, and altered some of the routes, but did not benefit the delivery. The territory was too great for four carriers to cover twice a day, and with the addition of the fifth carrier, it will mean that all routes will be changed, and those who have waited until as late as one o'clock in the afternoon for their morning mail, will probably be the most benefited under the new arrangements. No time has been given for the proposed change.

The six cities names were Indianapolis, South Bend, Rushville, Newcastle, Hartford City and Ft. Wayne.

ANOTHER STEP TO END RUHR DEADLOCK

Germany Inquires Whether France And England Were Prepared to Negotiate on Reparations

DELAYS REPLY TO BUSINESS

(By United Press)
Berlin, Oct. 9.—The German government today took another step toward ending the Ruhr deadlock and resuming reparations payment.

Through its ambassadors at Paris and London, the Stressemann government inquired whether France and England were prepared to negotiate regarding necessary details, it was learned reliably this afternoon.

Until the replies are received the government proposes to withhold its answer to a so-called industrial ultimatum delivered today by big business interests, headed by Hugo Stinnes.

Chancellor Stressemann has won the required confidence of the Reichstag in his new patch-work ministry, despite a general feeling it cannot long endure.

By a two thirds vote, the Reichstag passed a resolution of confidence in the Stressemann government late last night. The Dutch nationalists, the Communists and the Bavarian Folks-party (not to be confused with the folks party of Germany) voted against the chancellor.

At the time when Stressemann was receiving the support of the legislators, Hugo Stinnes, stung by charges of Bernhard in the Vossische Zeitung that the industrialist was trying to establish a dictatorship by driving prices sky-highward, published in the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung a statement under his own name, denying this.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS UNABLE TO ASSIST

SUPT. SCHOLL IN THEIR PLACE

J. H. Scholl, superintendent of the Rushville public schools, is assisting school officials of the state assigned to Rush county this week to conduct tests in elementary subjects, in the township schools, as a part of the program to gather information in "control counties" to be compared with similar tests conducted in counties where special supervision is in effect this year, under the direction of the Rockefeller Foundation.

Albert Free, superintendent of the Owen county schools, and R. N. Tiry, superintendent of the Bloomington schools, two of the nine men assigned to this county, were unable to come and Supt. Scholl was requested to help. W. E. Wagoner, assistant state high school inspector, who is directing the tests in this county, also is helping in the actual carrying out of the plan. Supt. Free may be able to come here for the latter part of the work, but was unable to be present for the first half. Supt. Tiry has found it impossible to come at all.

Tests were held in Walker, Rushville and Noble townships today and Wednesday the schools of Posey, Union and Jackson townships will be visited. Ripley, Center and Washington townships will be the last group and they will be the scene of the tests Thursday.

FREIGHTER IS ON ROCKS

Kennicott Sends Radio Call From Near Vancouver Early Today

San Francisco, Oct. 9.—The Williams Line freighter Kennicott ran aground on the rocks off Fredericks Island near Vancouver, B. C., at 1:12 this morning, according to a radiogram from the vessel to the Radio Corporation of America here at the time of the accident.

Communication was lost with the vessel at 1:30.

The message announcing her distress was relayed here from the vessel by stations at Ketchikan, Alaska, and Prince Rupert, B. C., which reported that the steam-ship "Queen" was the nearest vessel to the scene and had been requested to proceed at once to the Kennicott's assistance.

JOLLIFICATION IS PLANNED

An informal jollification over the election of Samuel L. Trabue of this city as grand outer guard at the Knights of Pythias grand lodge in Indianapolis last week, will be held next Monday evening at the K. of P. lodge rooms, it was decided Monday evening at the regular meeting of the lodge.

A committee was appointed and a definite program will be worked out. It is expected that several grand officers and representatives of lodges in neighboring cities will be invited. The Rushville man was elected by acclamation and members of the local lodge feel that it was a high compliment for him and the lodge.

HUGHES PLAN HAS LLOYD GEORGE O.K.

Former British Premier Believes Idea of Determining Germany's Capacity to Pay is Best

IN INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

One Time Pilot of England's Government Reminds Countrymen He is Still in The Running

With Lloyd George, Montreal, Oct. 9.—Lloyd George is keeping his ear into the international waters, despite the fact that he no longer is steering the British ship of state.

Having in mind the possibility that Stressemann may fall in a week or two and that his fall might conceivably be followed by the fall of the British ministry among other things, Lloyd George reminds his countrymen that he is ready at hand if need arises.

This is the construction some of his political friends put on the statement he issued here relating to the Hughes economic experts plan for settling the reparations question.

It was his first utterance on international problems except his usual statements. In effect Lloyd George urged the Hughes plan to determine Germany's capacity to pay, to begin earning it as the only sound and workable plan. France has stood in the way of the plan from the beginning. There was a sting for France and a warning in Lloyd George's brief statement in which he pointed out that, since the Hughes plan was first made, Germany's ability to pay has been lessened. The intimation that further delay would lessen it still further was clear.

Lloyd said the Hughes plan is, in his opinion, the only plan that will settle the reparations tangle. Lord Curzon, the British foreign minister, has been criticized on the ground that his foreign policy lacks definiteness.

If Lloyd George could stir up sentiment in the United States—no necessarily popular sentiment, but the sentiment of the administration—to the point where some American pressure might be brought on France to accept the Hughes plan in return for American co-operation, he would perhaps enhance his own political fortunes, it is pointed out here.

He and his party are to depart this afternoon for Ottawa for a brief stop. In the meantime the program for speeches on the Canadian tour is very much scrambled.

Lloyd George said he would not keep his program in Montreal but he went through every item of it. Now some of those with him expect he will make all the scheduled speeches, if he is not required to attend so many minor social and semi-public functions.

Lord Renfrew expected in Montreal about noon today on his way home from his ranching vacation probably will meet Lloyd George.

INJUNCTION SOUGHT

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 9.—Injunction against the Central Labor Union of Sullivan, Ind., four young women, formerly employees of Sullivan Telephone company and eleven other residents of Sullivan was asked in federal court today by the Sullivan Telephone Company. The complaint charged that the defendants conspired to prevent the proper operations of the company's business since the four girls were discharged.

ADVANTAGES OF CITY RECITED

Rotary Club Turns From Critical To Optimistic Viewpoint At Weekly Meeting Today

OUTSTANDING THINGS HERE

Churches, Schools, Transportation Facilities, Citizenship And Beauty Of Residence Section

Turning from the critical to the optimistic side, the Rotary club today discussed "The Advantages of Rushville," after having devoted the meeting last week to "The Needs of Rushville." Five short talks were made setting forth the advantages to be found in Rushville, following the reading of answers to a questionnaire sent to members of the Rotary club asking for their ideas regarding the six most important attributes of the city that make it stand from other county seat cities.

I. L. Endres spoke first on "Transportation Facilities," pointing to the excellent advantages Rushville enjoyed insofar as freight shipments were concerned. He said that Rushville was probably better situated in this respect, than any city of its size, because of the four railroads and an interurban line. Mr. Endres declared that though none of them was a trunk line, they connected with main lines in such a way that shippers really received better service than if they were located on trunk lines. He asserted that Rushville was not so fortunate in passenger service and touched briefly on the motor bus as a means of transportation.

Eugene B. Butler, principal of the high school, discussed "Schools," basing his short talk on the premise that the Rushville schools have a good organization, good teachers, and a good school spirit. He pointed out that the basis of the organization on the six-year plan—the first six grades in one group and the junior and senior high school in the other group, was the most practical method of organizing schools and was so accepted by educators generally.

Based on comparison with other schools, Mr. Butler asserted that the teaching corps had been on a high plane and that the school spirit was exceptionally good, evidence of this fact being found in the desire of pupils to go to school and the willingness of the teachers to do their work.

Referring to some of the outstanding advantages of the schools, he spoke of the benefit derived from the physical training courses, under the direction of Albert Cotton, and the high standard of the penmanship. Mr. Butler asserted the Palmer system has been mastered in the Rushville schools and that a great improvement in writing was being shown. He also mentioned that the Rushville high school is commissioned and belongs to the North Central Association of High Schools, Colleges and Universities, which was even a greater recognition of its worth. Mr. Butler spoke of the value of the commercial course, which has become very popular, the enthusiasm of the pupils, which resulted in the annual and weekly newspaper, both of which have brought the school recognition.

Dr. Walker said that the churches of Rushville seat 3,500 people, which is unusual for a city of this size, and gave expression to his thankfulness that there are so many denominations represented in Rushville.

"I realized long ago," he said, "that we do not all have to make the same approach to God."

Dr. Walker asserted that he could very sincerely pay tribute to every pastor in Rushville because all are doing their work well.

"I don't believe we could say that we have any class churches in Rushville," he asserted, "because people of all conditions of life belong and attend all churches and that is as it should be, because we should all (Continued on Page 6)

REMUS CASE TAKEN
TO CIRCUIT COURT

Cincinnati Attorney Charged With Transporting Liquor in Auto in Which There Was a Pistol

RECALLS MORRISTOWN WRECK

Shelbyville, Ind., Oct. 9.—Hearing was set aside Monday in the case of George Remus, Cincinnati attorney, charged in police court here with the transportation of liquor, as a substantial charge was entered against Remus in the Shelby circuit court. Remus furnished a cash bond of $1,000 for his release on the charge and arraignment will take place later.

The affidavit filed against Remus in the Shelby circuit court charges him with transporting liquor in an automobile in which there was a pistol. This places the case against Remus in the felony class. Remus made no comment on the case and left here immediately after he had made arrangements for the bond. His attorney, ex-Judge Alonzo Blair, represented Remus in the court proceedings.

Authorities who have been investigating the wreck of a large Marmon automobile near Morristown several weeks ago and the finding of a quantity of whisky in the car, report the finding of a 45 calibre revolver in the automobile. The automobile was owned by Mrs. Remus and articles of clothing in the machine bore marks that indicated they were owned by Remus.

At Mystic Again Today

That stout-hearted legion, the police, maligned and lampooned in many of the greatest cities in the country, at last had their inning at the Mystic Theatre yesterday where the thrilling police melodrama "In the Name of the Law" was revealed on the screen for the first time under the auspices of Mr. P. A. Powers and the Film Booking Offices of America, of which he is the managing director. The picture is also on view again today.

"In the Name of the Law" gives the policeman a square deal. It puts the guardian of our lives and liberty in the right light. And this for the first time in the history of the screen. "In the Name of the Law," in fact, shines like a mighty beacon of truth.

Big Scenes At Princess

Starting off the production of "The Dangerous Age" with a train and automobile race that took three days to film and found its conclusion in a spectacular wreck, John M. Stahl set a standard for big scenes for the production that was religiously carried out in the subsequent episodes.

Some action on a New York street

set, said to be the largest ever constructed on a stage, came next and was followed by an extravagant cafe scene in which several hundred fashionably attired men and girls took part, and an exciting race track scene, staged especially for the director.

The camera next ground out a beautiful and elaborate wedding scene, and then gave its attention to recording the important events transpiring in a remarkable floor of a Pasadena millionaire's home.

Other remarkable settings to be seen in the picture are a section of the Grand Central Terminal in New York, faithfully reproduced on the immense outdoor stage at the Mayer studios, and the interior of a United States mail car.

"The Dangerous Age," a First National attraction, began a two day engagement at the Princess Theatre Monday. It has an all-star cast, composed of Lewis S. Stone,

Ruth Clifford, Edith Roberts, Cleo Madison, Myrtle Stedman, Richard Tucker, Helen Lynch, James Morrison, Edward Burns and Lincoln Stedman. The story is by Frances Irene Reels and was prepared for the screen by J. G. Hawks and Bess Meredith.

At It Again

News dispatches recently carried the information that officials of the American Bankers' Association had agreed to start a campaign in this country in favor of canceling wholly or in part the debts the allies owe to us.

Having failed in every other such undertaking, the advocates of debt cancellation now seek to influence the general public through the medium of the bankers of the United States.

Have you ever heard of a banker, or of any other business man, deliberately canceling a just debt an individual owed to him? Necessary extension of credit, perhaps. But cancellation, never.

Of course, the eleven billions of allied debts the officials of the American Bankers' Association would have us cancel did not come from the private fortunes of the said officials. It came from the pockets of the people, the people who pay taxes, and many an American bought government bonds "until it hurt" in order that the eleven billions might be loaned to the allied governments.

It makes a difference who pays the freight.

The officials of the association may be able to influence the bankers of the United States, but we doubt it.

The great majority of American bankers are generously supplied with brains. The interests of the people of the United States are of more vital concern to them than are the desires of certain foreign governments who are crazy to slide out of paying their just debts.

This latest scheme bears the earmarks of being just another piece of foreign propaganda that will fall flat—as all such have done.

Weather Superstitions

If you were brought up in the country you must have heard that when the moon was full the weather was sure to be cold, and that it was quite providential that this was so, since travelers in the night in the severest of winter weather would have the advantage of the extra light. But the weather wiseacres have been telling us for years there was nothing in this any more than in the theory that the winters were growing warmer.

Nevertheless, whenever it happens to be cold at the full moon people think of this old saying. But did you think of it the other night with the moon full and clear, and the weather nearly as sultry as summer?

Then there is the line storm. From time immemorial people have associated any storm that came within 5 days on either side of September 21

as due to the passing of the sun across the equator on its southward journey; but we have had this year no storm of any kind. The weather charts have always told us that the line storm was a myth. This year suggests that they might be right.

Money Won't Buy Loyalty

Loyalty, vigilance, alertness and service are four elements which every business man would like to believe are inherent in all of his employees.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has abundant evidence to show that such qualities are common to all but a negligible portion of its employees.

This evidence comes in the form of unsolicited letters. As an example we quote one received from Mr. Wm. E. Small, of Fargo, North Dakota, written under date of September 11, in which he says:

"I wish to acknowledge the courtesy of your station attendant, Mr. Grassell, of Grafton. I am used to receiving the best treatment at the hands of your Fargo Service Station men but this young man has the idea of service and accommodation raised to the nth power.

"The soil around Grafton is about the slimiest, greasiest, blackest, and most all-round detestable stuff in the world to get smeared up with but, notwithstanding this and notwithstanding the fact that I was a total stranger to him and not one of his regular customers, when I drove into your station at Grafton after an unusually heavy down-pour of rain last week your agent at that point insisted that I remain in my car while he attached the chains over wheels and under fenders literally plastered with Grafton gumbo. When informed that I intended driving through to Grand Forks he not only put on the chains but wired them on and made an expert job of it. When he had finished he was covered from head to foot with mud and slime but refused absolutely to accept a cent for the service rendered.

"I know of no other way to square accounts than to report the matter to headquarters. As I drove down to Grand Forks through a sea of mud but clean and comfortable I swore eternal gratitude to my friends, the Standard Oil Company, for all time to come. You are giving us real service up here in the Red River Valley and I, for one, appreciate it."

It was loyalty to the Company's ideals of service that caused this service station attendant to go far out of his way to render Mr. Small an extraordinary degree of service in an extraordinary situation—and he made another friend for the Company.

Such loyalty cannot be bought—it must be earned.

Skillful management is one thing—shrewd buying is another—scientific manufacturing processes constitute still another—but the loyalty—the spirit—the morale—of the 27,000 employees is what has made the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) great—in size—in achievements—and in service—to the thirty million people of the Middle West.

In the tournament held by the local club at their grounds north of this city Wednesday and Thursday, some excellent scores were made. Dr. Charles Green, Charlie Brooks, Ben Cox and Dr. F. M. Sparks came out with good scores to their credit.

Elgar Higgs is organizing a Watson drum corps. He has met with enough success to insure the new club but still needs a few dollars more. There will be twelve drums in the organization, ten snare and two large ones. Those who have not donated and wish to do so may give their money to Elgar Higgs or Byron Cowing.

While coming down the Main street hill yesterday evening, the front axle on the Darnell & Spradling delivery wagon broke. The driver was thrown headlong over the horse, but was not injured. The horse has been in three runaways, but when the axle broke stood perfectly still until it was unhitched.

HUGGINS DUCKS THE SPOTLIGHT

Winning of Pennant For Third Time
So Easily Defracts Credit That
Yank Manager Deserves

PLAYED IMPORTANT PART

Task Was to Prevent Team From Doing Worst Through Over-Confidence And Taking Things Easy

By HENRY L. FARRELL

New York, Oct. 9.—Winning the third straight American League pennant for New York proved such an easy job for the Yankees that it rather detracted, or perhaps made less positive, the credit that little Miller Huggins deserves for his success in handling the team.

The Yanks were almost a cinch for the pennant from the beginning of the season. Critics were almost unanimous in picking the champions of 1921 and 1922 to repeat and they more than lived up to expectations and predictions.

Huggins had an important part in guiding the team through a successful season. His task was not so much to get the best out of his material as it was to prevent them from doing their worst through over-confidence and an inclination to take things easy.

The little manager of the club fortified with a wonderful pitching staff and he displayed some skill in handling his staff so that they remained in form through the entire season.

His work has been under cover and the fans who base their judgment upon superficial evidence find nothing much in the victory of the Yanks that could be construed as a vindication of a capable manager who has never appealed to New Yorkers.

Regardless of the fact that it is something of a feat to win three pennants in succession even with a star team, Huggins gets little credit and his reward is the comment that they should have had the pennant cinched in August and that any manager could win with that kind of a team.

Huggins has never been popular in New York because he did not care enough to set aside his natural inclination to avoid the limelight. Of a retiring disposition off the field, modest and unassuming and, at the same time, impervious to unjust criticism, Huggins has gone quietly about his business and in building a three-time pennant winner out of a lot of uniform-fillers he has really accomplished something.

It is true that Huggins had almost countless money behind him and the privilege of buying where and when he saw fit, but all the money in the mint would not have enabled him to produce a pennant-winning combination if he did not have good judgment enough to know what players were worth buying for the club.

Huggins has never made a bad buy and his shrewdness was shown last winter when he arranged a trade with the Boston Red Sox in which he secured Herb Pennock, the veteran southpaw pitcher.

He was severely criticized for sending George Murray, a promising young pitcher, and Norman McMillan a fine young infielder to Boston in the deal for a pitcher that was voted generally to be through. But his judgment was vindicated when Pennock developed into one of the best pitchers of the season and the youngster sent to Boston fizzled.

Someone deserves great credit for the harmony that was established on the Yankee team this season. New spirit was instilled into the players, who were divided in rival factions last year, and they played ball together all season.

Although he has not claimed any credit for it, Huggins no doubt had much to do with the transformation of the team, although it is certain that he would disclaim all credit if anyone should be kind enough to praise him for it.

Critics scoff at the crude style of baseball played by the Yanks, in which the sock prevails over the scientific and they blame Huggins for the dumb game that the club displayed in the last world's series with the Giants.

There is no doubt that the Yanks were stupid and played like saps against the Giants. McGraw, as a manager was made to look like a champion against a second rater when the Yanks were led into traps as old as the game itself; but it must be remembered that McGraw is the smartest manager of all time and that he has material which is mental.

NEWSY GOSSIP IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Giants Favorites for Series

(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Oct. 9.—Confidence being a large and prominent part of any battle, the New York Giants should have the advantage in mental fettle over the Yankees when they go into their third battle of successive years for the baseball championship.

After outfighting the Yankees in 1921 and routing them in 1922, it is but natural that the National League champions should go into the 1923 fight feeling that they can win. It follows also that the Yankees could not help but have a slight doubt about their chances after they had lost two years running to a team that was unanimously regarded as being inferior to the American League pennant winners.

It is this spirit of confidence, which should sway the Giants, and the established ability of McGraw's team to do its very best when the situation is worst that makes the National Leaguers the favorite in the betting.

Yankee supporters, if there is such a thing as partisan feeling in New York, believe that the chances of the team rest entirely upon the robust form of Babe Ruth.

It has become an accepted axiom that "as Ruth goes, so go the Yanks" and on this theory, which was proved beyond all doubt, during the last season, if the swat king shatters the spell that John McGraw has cast over him for two years, the Yanks ought to win.

Star pitching, as it is represented in the Yankee staff, will impose plenty of trouble upon the Giant batters, but it will be nothing compared to the handicap McGraw's team will have to carry if Ruth goes on a batting rampage.

It is impossible to look in the glass and see a movie of what the Babe is going to make of the chance to redeem himself, but it is almost a safe bet that the battering ram of the Yankees will not be the chief goat of the series, even if he is not the champion hero.

Ruth's hitting in the closing days of the season will be a most important factor in getting him ready for the series. It will be remembered that Ruth came back home with the Yankees after their last western trip leading the league in batting and immediately fell into a slump. He got the idea that he couldn't hit in the new Yankee Stadium, and ideas of that kind impose a fatal mental hazard on a ball player. Ruth, however, apparently worked himself out of that mental bunker and started hitting.

Ruth has always maintained that he liked the Polo Grounds better than any park on the circuit, when the American League was sharing the home of the Giants and part of the series will be played there.

He ought to hit at least normally under conditions that are as near to ideal as possible and his normal gait this season has been around .400. Giant pitchers in 1921 and 1922 had to fool only a Babe who was trying to murder the ball and who wasn't in shape to connect with a blimp. But the Babe of 1923 is a great batter as well as the king slugger and he is in shape.

With the Giants forced to play part of the series on a strange field, while the Yankees are at home in both grounds, the National League champions will also face another handicap. It may amount to nothing and again it may turn out to be a most important factor.

The Yankee stadium is hard to play in. Irish Meusel and "Pep" Young, the Giant left and right-fielders, will have almost twice the territory to cover that they protect in the Polo Grounds and strange lighting conditions may bother the batters. American League players claim the Yankee home is the hardest field to play in the big leagues and it is only natural that the Giants might have some difficulty in adjusting themselves.

Just before the series opened last fall, the New York correspondent of a Japanese paper cabled the following expert prognostication on the series to his paper:

"All depends on how the Yankee batters bat and Giant pitchers pitch."

The same abstract dope might be applied this year, although it might be amended to predict that the series will depend upon how the Yankee batters bat and how the Yankee pitchers pitch.

Disregarding the proof placed at hand in 1921 and 1922 that great pitching is not an insurmountable obstacle for a good ball club to overcome, it still remains difficult to reason that the Giants can get by Sam Jones, Herb Pennock, Waite Hoyt, Joe Bush and Bob Shawkey just because they did last year and the year previous.

With a ball club that is more mentally alert, a team that is actuated by better spirit and a manager who has been able to establish harmony where discord prevailed before, it is not logical that the Yankees should be out-thought and out-played again just because they were last fall and the fall before.

With Babe Ruth playing the greatest game of his life on the offense and the defense and with the whole Yankee team set to vindicate themselves, just as the Babe wants to redeem himself, it is not reasonable to take evidence from the past to draw the conclusion that once and twice wrong, the Yanks always will be wrong.

Because the Yanks have nothing better than their best which failed in two previous fights against the Giants it is not safe to depend upon the moral reformation of the team and psychology to get that the series will not result just as it did in the two previous cases.

On form and dope, the Giants ought to win the championship again. The experts, who strung along with the Yanks for two years, have all swung over to the champions and are picking the Giants.

The Giants, it is sure, have many reasons and causes why they should win, but we do not believe they will.

NEW YORK HAS MONOPOLY ON BASE BALL CLASSIC

New York, Oct. 9.—Maintaining what has become almost a monopoly on the world's series, New York again will have a private fight for the championship of the baseball world when the Giants and the Yankees meet for the third successive year to decide the championship.

It is nothing new for one team to win three pennants in a row. The National League has seven such triple winners on record—Chicago in 1880, 1881 and 1882; Boston in 1891, 1892, and 1893; Baltimore in 1894, 1895 and 1896; Pittsburgh in 1901, 1902, and 1903; Chicago in 1906, 1907 and 1908 and New York in 1911, 1912 and 1913 and again ten years later in 1921, 1922 and 1923.

The feat of the Yankees in winning three pennants in a row is more of a novelty in the younger American League, however, as the Detroit Tigers, who won the championship in 1907, 1908 and 1909, were the only club to do it in the past.

Never before, however, have the same two pennant winners engaged in the world's series three times in succession. The best previous mark was established in 1907 and 1908, when the Chicago Cubs and the Detroit Tigers met in the series. The only case in which two teams from the same city took part in the series was in 1906 when the Cubs and the White Sox had a private series in Chicago.

In winning the National League pennant with the Giants Manager John J. McGraw established a new record also by finishing in first place for the ninth time. No other manager can approach this wonderful achievement and it is very doubtful if it ever will be equaled.

The victory of the Yankees in the American League placed Miller Huggins in a tie with Hughey Jennings, who won three successive pennants with the Detroit Tigers, but it is just half what Connie Mack piled up in the days when the Philadelphia Athletics were in their glory.

Capacity Yankee Stadium—76,000.

Last year's series between the Giants and the Yanks was one of the most drab and ordinary of all that have been played.

When forty-nine various kinds of playing records were made or equaled in the 1921 series, only one new record was made last fall and five minor marks were equaled.

The two teams made a new record when they drew $125,147 to one game.

Erin Ward tied a record by hitting two homers in one game. Bill Cunningham tied a record by making two assists from the outfield in one game.

The Giants tied a record by not losing one game and the Yanks tied another by not winning a game.

They both tied a record by engaging in one "no-decision" game.

Midwest Grid Briefs

Chicago.—Light signal drill was the rule at Stagg Field yesterday as the Maroons were given a rest after the Colorado Aggie game of Saturday.

Evanston.—Two sets of rabbit backs will be used by Northwestern for the rest of the second. The two sets will alternate quarters to give the Purple a fresh list of ball toters each period.

Urbana.—Placed into the hallowed circle of championship possibilities by their showing against Nebraska, the scrapping Illini were told of the faults that showed Saturday and given a light workout by Coach Zuppke yesterday.

Madison.—The Badgers emerged from the Coe game uninjured and were sent through hard scrimmage last night by Coach Jack Ryan.

Bloomington.—Willing to forget the defeat at the hands of DePauw Coach Ingram turned his attention to perfecting his machine for conference tilts.

Iowa City.—Returning to tackle practice to correct faults shown against Knox Saturday was the work given Iowa behind closed gates yesterday.

Lafayette.—Fundamental football was again the order here as Coach Philan drilled his men yesterday.

Minneapolis.—Several crippled regulars unable to play in Saturday's game returned to the Gopher squad and were sent through a light workout.

Ann Arbor.—Disappointed in the poor showing of his team against Case, Coach Yost tried several changes in the line-up in an attempt to improve the offensive strength.

Columbus.—Coach Wilce concentrated on aerial work in preparation for the Colgate game.

Notre Dame—Line weakness are troubling Notre Dame coaches as they prepare for the Army game Saturday. Only inexperienced men are available.

World's Biggest Ball Yards for The Series

New York, Oct. 9.—Played in two new parks, the largest baseball grounds in the world, the championship series between the New York Giants and the New York Yankees is almost sure to establish new attendance records for one or two games, if not for the entire series.

The new Yankee stadium, built at 161st Street and River Avenue, in the Bronx, cost more than $2,000,000 and it has seating space of 70,000 fans. It was filled only once this season, on the opening day, but its capacity was almost reached for two other Sunday games in mid-season. The Polo Grounds was remodeled last winter at a cost of over half a million dollars and it is the finest park in the National League. The infield is most completely surrounded with a double-deck grandstand that gives the park a seating capacity of 56,000. There is only a small bleacher section in center field that seats about 7,000.

The Giants and the Yanks set the present attendance record when they drew 269,976 fans to the world's series in 1921, when eight games were played. Owing to the short series last fall, the attendance did not approach the preceding year's mark.

Starting later than usual, the series may be bothered with bad weather this year and the general slump in interest may cause the attendance to decrease. It is considered almost certain, however, that the two parks will be filled to capacity for the first two or three games and new marks are practically sure to be established.

FIGHT RESULTS

Omaha.—Billy Welsh, English welter and Morris Schalsler fought a ten round draw.

Newark, N. J. Oct. 9.—After the crowd had jeered and complained that they were looking at a "stall" the 12-round, no-decision fight here last night between Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion outside of New York and Jimmy Jones, champion in New York was stopped before the tenth round and declared "no contest".

New Orleans, La., Oct. 9.—The scheduled 15-round bout between Bob Martin, former champion of the A. E. F., and Martin Burke, New Orleans, heavyweight promoted by Frank Oret, was stopped in the seventh round last night because of Martin's poor physical condition.

World Series Heroes

1910—Eddie Collins, Athletics, second baseman, and Jack Coombs, Athletics' pitcher.

1911—Frank Baker, Athletics' third baseman, whose home runs defeated the Giants.

1912—Tris Speaker, Red Sox center fielder, by his hitting, and Harry Hooper, Red Sox right fielder, by his fielding, featured the victories over the Giants.

1913—Baker, by his hitting, and Chief Bender and Eddie Plank, Athletics' pitchers, defeated the Giants.

1914—Hank Gowdy, Braves' catcher, batted his team to victory over the Athletics. Dick Radolph was the star pitcher of the Braves.

1915—Duffy Lewis, Harry Hooper and Tris Speaker, the Red Sox outfield, defeated the Phillies by their batting and fielding.

1916—Larry Gardner, Red Sox third baseman, was chiefly instrumental in defeating the Dodgers by his batting.

1917—Eddie Cicotte and Urban Fieber, White Sox pitchers, who won the games from the Giants by their twirling.

1918—George Whiteman, veteran of the minor leagues, who played left field for the Red Sox and was the chief factor in defeating the Cubs by his batting and fielding.

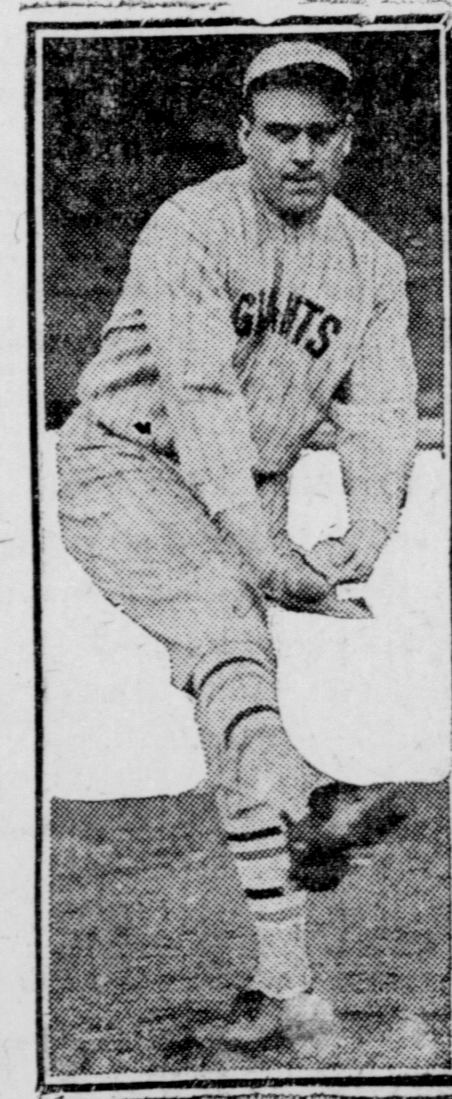

1919—Walter Ruether, Red pitcher, by his batting, and Eddie Roush, Red center fielder by his fielding, were the big factors in most of the defeats of the White Sox. Dickie Kerr, White Sox youngster, pitched his team to two of its three victories.

1920—Elmer Smith, Cleveland right fielder, hit a home run with the bases full, the first time in world's series history. Bill Wambach, Cleveland second baseman, completed a triple play unassisted. Jim Bagby, Cleveland pitcher, hit a homer with two on. All happened in the fifth game which Cleveland won from Brooklyn 8 to 1.

1921—Jesse Barnes, regarded as the "pall bearer" of the Giants' pitching staff, relieved Toney twice after he had been knocked out of the box and won both games. Ross Young Giant's outfielder, hit a triple and a double in the seventh inning of the third game. Frank Frisch, Giants' third baseman, scored two runs in the same inning. Carl Yanks, Yankee pitcher, pitched the first fourth and seventh games without giving a base on balls. Mike McNally and Bob Meusel, of the Yanks, stole home.

1922—Jack Scott, released unconditionally by the Cincinnati Reds for having an incurable arm and picked up by McGraw only when he pleaded that he had to have a job to keep his family, turned the big hero of the series when he let the Yanks down with four hits in the third game and won for the Giants by a score of 3 to 0. Babe Ruth was not one of the heroes and, on the other hand, was a terrible bust. In seventeen trips to the plate he got only two singles and a double for the grand average of .118.

THE BABE RARIN' TO GO

Bob Meusel And Mike McNally Are Fit, But It Is Doubtful Whether Pipp Will Start

(Written for United Press)

New York, Oct. 9.—One more lap around the clock and the growled—"let's go" of the umpires are all that remain on the program to get the third annual battle between the Giants and the Yankees for the world's baseball championship under way.

Everything else is ready. Fair weather is in promise, tickets are about gone, the teams are ready and the fans are waiting to go.

Miller Huggins, the little manager of the American League champions, took unto himself a rather pleasant mood today. It seems that he found a decrease when he called the roll of cripples.

Babe Ruth is ready and rarin' to go. Bob Meusel has sound dogs under him again, and Mike McNally has separated from a stitch in the side. Wally Pipp is still rather doubtful but Huggins thinks he will be able to start the first game.

"What if the Giants start laying them down in front of him?" Huggins was asked about Pipp and his game ankle.

"We'll have to do something when they start that," he replied.

Pep Young is still sniffing with a cold and John Soupbone Scott has a kink in his arm but otherwise the National League champions are ready for the world.

Yankee business managers announced that the reserved seats were all gone but that 36,000 unreserved seats would be available tomorrow. The Giants have sold all their reserved seats.

Great quantities of tickets have fallen into the hands of scalpers who are asking double the face value.

Betting continues brisk with the Yanks still prevailing as slight favorites over the Giants. John McGraw, manager of the world's champions, thinks it is a good omen for his club.

"Twice the Yanks have been the favorites in the series and twice they didn't win," he said. Huggins is not pleased with the honor of being the favorite.

The "inferiority complex" which is being advanced as one of the reasons why the Yanks will have a hard time beating the Giants, is not apparent in the actions of the American League champions. They are all pepped up and they show their confidence that they will win.

"They can't beat us three in a row," Babe said today and the other members of the team feel the same way. Ruth must know that the dope places upon his shoulders the entire burden of the Yankees but he does not show it. If the theory is sound that "as Ruth goes, so goeth the Yanks, the Babe is at least trying to show his teammates he is going very large.

The Yankees feel sure that Arthur Nehf, the steady southpaw of the Giants will pitch the first game and this hunch has caused Miller Huggins to take a second guess on his pitching selection.

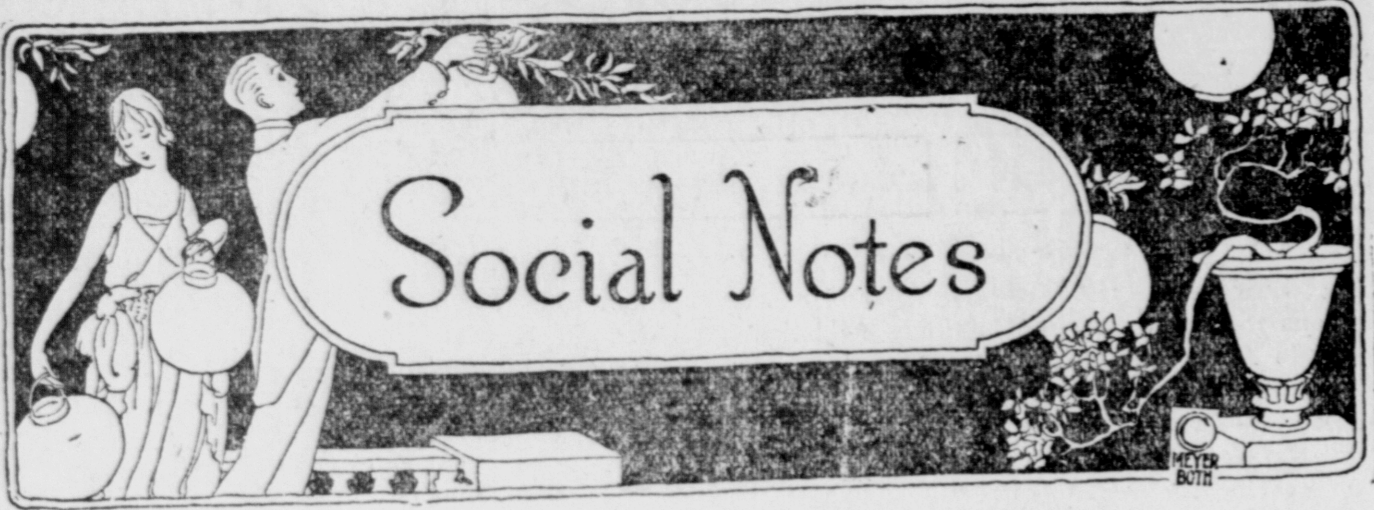

Several days ago "Hag" said he would start Jones if the weather was clear, and that Joe Bush would get the call if the day should be cloudy.

Huggins said today that he had changed his mind and that he would not be sure until tomorrow. It was thought that the leader of the Yanks might throw Herb Pennock, his southpaw ace in the opener. The Giants have never "looked at" Pennock and they consider him more seriously than any of the other Yank pitchers.

Most of the baseball family, minor and major league managers, players, scouts and writers had gathered today. Commissioner Landis will preside at a meeting of the major league club owners today to go through the annual draft.

Of course it is none of our business, but how would it do for President Coolidge to recall his official observers from Europe and send them to Oklahoma?

mingle together at the altar of worship."

Dr. Walker asked that it be remembered that churches are made up of human beings and therefore are not faultless. He developed the thought, in closing, that the church, as the lens, gathers light for its members as best it can.

L. L. Allen, speaking on "The Residential District," referred to the beauty of Rushville homes and lawns, the generally good appearance of the whole city, regardless of any section, and recited instances of visitors who had marked the unusually attractive features of the city. He recalled that many times Rushville had been remembered long after persons living here had been forgotten.

In speaking of cases where people contemplated moving here, Mr. Allen spoke of the need of more desirable rental property.

Rushville is primarily a city of comfortable homes, he concluded, and there is daily manifested a home pride which brings town pride.

Warder Wyatt spoke briefly on "Citizenship", saying that "if there is anything that speaks for itself, it is our citizenship." He pointed out that all of the things enumerated as advantages of Rushville make for better citizenship, and brought out the thought that Rushville citizenship owes something to the citizenship of the county. He also said Rushville citizenship was to be commended for not losing sight of the ones to follow.

W. E. Wagener of Indianapolis, assistant state high school inspector and former member of the Rushville club, and Mr. Mulligan of Cleveland, were guests today.

The suggestions on "The Advantages of Rushville" were compiled as follows in the order of their popularity among members of the Rotary club, as follows:

FARM PROGRAM TO BE GIVEN COOLIDGE

and then submitted to the national administration. The scheme is understood to be along the lines of that outlined by the United States department of agriculture which included formation of a government corporation to purchase all surplus wheat for export and act as agents in selling the grain abroad. Leaders in the farm congress believe this plan would immediately place wheat upon a higher price level and would not furnish merely temporary relief but could be continued over a long period if necessary.

Henry C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture is enroute to Kansas City to discuss the farm situation with the delegates to the congress and help frame a positive and aggressive program of relief.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, hollow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

98 OUT OF EVERY 100 WOMEN BENEFITED

An Absolutely Reliable Statement Important to Every Woman

Remarkable Results Shown by a Nation Wide Canvass of Women Purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. 50,000 Women Answer

For some time a circular has been enclosed with each bottle of our medicine bearing this question: "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

Replies, to date, have been received from over 50,000 women answering that question.

98 per cent of which say YES. That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take the medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This is a most remarkable record of efficiency. We doubt if any other medicine in the world equals it.

Think of it—only two women out of 100 received no benefit—98 successes out of a possible 100.

Did you ever hear anything like it? We must admit that we, ourselves, are astonished.

Such evidence should induce every woman suffering from any ailment peculiar to her sex to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see if she can't be one of the 98. The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Of course we know that our medicine does benefit the large majority of women who take it. But that only two out of 100 received no benefit is most astonishing.

It only goes to prove, however, that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure all—one that is made by the most scientific process; not from drugs, but from a combination of nature's roots and herbs, can and does do more good than hastily prepared prescriptions.

You see, we have been making, improving and refining this medicine for over 50 years until it is so perfect and so well adapted to women's needs that it actually has the virtue to benefit 98 out of every 100 women who take it.

Its reliability and recognized efficiency has gained for it a sale in almost every country in the world—leading all others.

TON AND A HALF LITTER IN COUNTY

Chester Meal of This County Establishes a Record for Hoosier Farmers With His Hogs

LITTER WEIGHED 3210 POUNDS

Local Farmers Saved And Raised All
13 And in 90 Day Period They Weighed 1,012 Pounds

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 9—A ton and a half litter with a two hundred pound hog to spare, is the new state record for a litter in the Hoosier Ton Litter Club, according to records at Purdue University.

To Chester A. Meal of Rush county, goes the honor of producing this litter. Thirteen pigs were farrowed in the litter and all were raised. At 90 days the litter weighed 1012 pounds; at six months 3210 pounds.
Meal will get one of the gold medals offered by the Indiana Livestock Breeders' Association under whose auspices the contest is conducted.

"My litter was sired by Revelation 2d, a senior yearling that stood third in his class in the Poland
China show at the Indiana State Fair this year," said Mr. Meal. "This boar weighs 950 pounds."

"The litter is out of Lady Buster, a purebred Poland China weighing 650 pounds, in full flesh. She has produced two litters. The first time she farrowed 11 pigs and raised nine to weaning. The second was her ton and a half litter."

After mating last fall Mr. Meal turned Lady Buster into a corn and soybean field that had been hogged off, with the rest of the 30 sows on the farm. Rye had been sown in the field and there was plenty of late fall and winter pasture. She ran in this field during the most of the time she carried her litter.

A few days before farrowing she was put in a small lot with an individual house for shelter. The house was cleansed and disinfected before she was put in.

"I gave the sow nothing but water the first 24 hours after the pigs came," quoting Mr. Meal again.
"Then I gave her a half ear of corn as the first feed. The corn was gradually increased. Several days after farrowing I began feeding a small amount of slop, made of rolled oats, water and semi-solid buttermilk. Slop as well as corn was gradually increased as the pigs got larger."

"The litter was fed rolled oats in a creep as soon as the pigs would eat. Later on I made a slop of

Purdue Course is Planned to Meet
Needs of Farm or Commercial
Poultry Raisers

TO DISCUSS MANY SUBJECTS

The Fifth Annual Poultry Short Course at Purdue University will be held November 12 to 24, 1923.

This course is planned to meet the needs of farm or commercial poultry raisers who desire to increase the size of their plant or better organize their poultry business.
The subjects of housing, breeding, feeding, marketing, incubation, brooding and diseases will be fully discussed in class room work. Actual practice in judging birds, operating incubators and brooders of different types is given during the course.

The Purdue poultry plant has excellent equipment to give the practical and theoretical answer to many poultry problems. Its flocks total 1500 hens, with ten different breeds of chickens reared each year. The incubator cellar contains between 15 and 20 different makes of incubators ranging in size from 50 to 4800 egg capacity. The brooding equipment consists of eight to ten different types of brooders.

Trap nest records, experimental results, high and low egg producing stock will be used for study in classroom and laboratory work.

For complete information relative to the course, address Poultry Department, Purdue University.

MORE THAN HALF FINISHED

Wheat Sowing in County is Aided by Good Weather

Rush county wheat sowing is more than half finished, it is estimated, because weather conditions during the past ten days have been such that farmers were not hindered in the least with the work.

The wheat crop in this county will be much shorter than customary next year, it is indicated, on account of many farmers being unable to sow grain in corn fields, due to the corn being down so bad. Several heavy wind storms in September blew the corn down. A number of farmers, however, went ahead with their regular crop rotation and sowed in the corn, regardless of the damage, on the theory that they could not afford to sacrifice their rotation plans.

POULTRY MEETING AT PURDUE OCT. 17

Farmers And Raisers of Poultry in
The State Are Urged to Attend
Big Two Day Round-up

IS AN EDUCATIONAL AFFAIR

All Lines of The Work Will be Taken up in Detail by Experts—Disease Control A Topic

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 9—Poultrymen of Indiana should mark down October 17 and 18, Wednesday and Thursday, as the time of the big annual poultry round-up at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., according to the announcements recently issued by the Indiana State Poultry Association. This meeting, while an association affair, is an educational meeting to which all Hoosier poultry raisers are invited.

The program will open at 10:00 A.
M. October 17 with a laboratory on judging hens for egg production. This work will be given by Prof. A. G.
Philips, using trap-nested hens from the Purdue poultry farm. It will be more than a culling demonstration, as egg production of pullets and breeding qualities of males will be considered.

In the afternoon L. P. Doyle of the Purdue Veterinary Department will demonstrate the methods of making the tests for Bacillary White Diarrhoea of chicks. This test was used on many flocks over the state last year, and results will be reported by those who have actually tried it out.

The feature of the first night meeting will be the Baby Chick Supper-Conference, with Harry R. Lewis president of the International Baby Chick Association, and W. J. Buss, former chief of poultry at the Ohio Experiment Station, as speakers of the evening. It is expected that practically every large hatchery in Indiana will have a representative at this conference.

The program for the second day covers many lines of work. Professor Philips of Purdue and Frank Platt of Chicago will continue the production judging laboratory. C. W.
Carriek of Purdue will tell of the experimental work in feeding vita-mines to chicks—new work in a new

Agriculture In Schools
Made More Practicable

Agriculture in the rural schools will be taught in a slightly different manner in Elkhart County this year than in the past. Through the cooperation of the county school superintendent, an agricultural outline has been made by County Agent C.
A. Jackson, for the teachers of the rural schools to follow. This will deal with farm crops while next year it is planned to have them deal with animals. In place of studying the subject from books, the agricultural students will study more from actual doing and seeing. The course is meant to deal with phases of agriculture which are adapted to Elkhart County in the most practicable way. Bulletins will be furnished and help given through the County Agent's office, while the outline will be taken up in detail at the County Teachers' Institute.

FALL BEST TIME TO FRESHEN COWS

Fall Freshening Has Many Advantages And Should be Practiced by Dairymen More Generally

Cows Freshened in Fall Produce 84
Pounds More Milk or 32 Pounds
More Fat Than Those in Spring

By G. A. WILLIAMS
(Dairy Department, Purdue University)

Many dairy cows will freshen in Indiana during the next few weeks.
Fall freshening has many advantages and should be practiced by dairymen more generally than it is. Hot weather, poor pastures and flies always reduce the milk flow during the summer months. Cows nearing the end of their lactation or those that are dry are not so seriously effected by these conditions as animals that have been in milk only a few months.
Again, after threshing and silo-filling dairymen are not so busy and can give more care and attention to the fresh cow and her calf.

The time of freshening exerts considerable influence on production.
The United States Department of Agriculture publishes the following dates compiled from a study of 10-870 Cow Testing Association records.

Season Fresh	Lbs. Mil.	Lbs. Fat
Fall	6689	268
Winter	6439	258
Summer	5941	236
Spring	5842	236

It will be seen that the cows freshening in the fall produced 847 pounds more milk or 32 pounds more fat than those freshening in the spring. Taking the price of butterfat at 40 cents per pound, this would mean that the first group have an income of $12.80 per cow more than the spring group. Some additional feed would be required but it would not equal the difference in receipts.
Prices are better during winter months and there is less danger of producing a surplus of milk during the winter season. Much of the so-called over production could be avoided if many of those cows that freshen in the spring, milk for a few months during the grass season and are poorly fed during the winter, could be disposed of. Undoubtedly many of these should be consigned to the shambles immediately but there are some that would make a fair profit over feed cost if given a

Donald Ball is Attending Annual Conference of Agricultural Extension Workers This Week

WILL LAST UNTIL FRIDAY

Farm Home Conference is New Feature And The Usual Short
Course Sessions Will be Held

County Agent D. D. Ball of this city is at Lafayette this week attending the 29th annual conference of agricultural extension workers at Purdue University, which got under way Monday.

The sessions will continue through next Friday, merging the last two days into a Farm Home conference.
County agricultural agents, farmers' institute speakers, extension specialists working out from Purdue and other identified with extension work are expected to attend, about 200 in all. Pertinent farm and home topics will be discussed by state and national leaders.

The Farm Home conference is a new feature and it is hoped to work out a definite program for the improvement of the Indiana farm homes. Director G. I. Christie of the Experiment Station sounded the keynote of the conference in the opening address Monday afternoon. Dean J. H. Skinner spoke at night on Agricultural Leadership and what it can do in various communities over the state.

Tuesday and Wednesday will be given over to an intensive short course for those here at the conference, the latter day being devoted largely to discussions on marketing of farm products, with officials of the Indiana and American Farm Bureau as the speakers.

The next two days will be devoted to a discussion of the problems of Indiana Farm Home with speakers of wide repute scheduled for addresses. These speakers include such men as C. J. Galpin of the Department of Agriculture; Dr. Eben Mumford of Michigan Agricultural College; President E. C. Elliott of Purdue, and widely known women workers, including Dr. Louise Stanley, in charge of the home economics division of the Department of Agriculture, Mrs. Virginia C. Meredith of Lafayette, dean of women agricultural extension workers in Indiana; Mrs.
Charles W. Sewell, Otterbein; Miss Grace Frysinger from Washington, D. C. and others.

Several organizations of the state will co-operate with the University in formulating a Farm Home program, the list including the Indiana Farm Bureau, Federation of Women's Clubs, Parent Teachers' Asso-

VALUE OF FEEDING POULTRY MASH WITH ANIMAL PROTEIN IS SHOWN

The value of feeding to poultry a mash containing an animal protein such as tankage or meat scraps is shown in a report made on two Delaware County farms by County Agent A. L. Hodgson. The report follows:

Mrs. Ethel Huff, who has been keeping records in the County Egg Record work since March, and who has Single Comb White Leghorn hens, reports the following: Record for last week of June showed 35 eggs per day on a flock of 79 hens.
On July 7 or 8, these hens ate the last of a mash feed which she had been keeping before them. In a week the production had dropped to one and two eggs per day the mash feed was resumed within a week, with a result that on July 22 the yield went to 8 eggs per day and by August 1 the flock had again laid 34 eggs and on the 5 of August 42 eggs were produced, with an average of 35 eggs per day for the first 27 days of August. The flock culled on the 28. The birds were divided into three classes, 30 No. 1, 21 No.
2 and 28 culs. Another flock of White Wyandottes kept on the same farm and fed separately by Ora Huff showed 61 No. 1, 80 No. 2, and 58 culs for a total of 199 hens.

Mr. Huff stated emphatically that after having fed the same special feed that his daughter-in-law had fed, it surely pays to feed hens in the summer.

That culling hens regularly and systematically is a paying proposition for the farmer is demonstrated by the experience of Howard Mc-Mullen, who conducted a Purdue University poultry demonstration farm in Delaware County. The McMullens have a flock of Single Comb White Leghorns and started culling five years ago. The next year Mrs. Mc-Mullen began keeping eggs records and found that her flock of 200 birds laid an average of 125 eggs per year. The next year a somewhat larger flock averaged 142 eggs for the year and last year a yield of 150 eggs per bird for a flock of 325 hens was secured. For the six months period ending July 31, 1923, an average of 110 eggs per bird has been produced and it is expected for the year, not less than 170 eggs per bird will be reached. Incidentally, a debt of about $3,000 thousand dollars has been paid off by the hens on this farm within the last three years. The McMullens are justly proud of their flock of hens.

Tubercular Cattle

17,000 HEAD WAS TESTED

Only Few Herd Owners Refused To Have Cattle Tested And These

By C. C. MADISON
(Dearborn County Agent)

Three years ago, Dearborn County began testing cattle for tuberculosis with the object of cleaning up the entire county. This work has now been accomplished. In round numbers about 17,000 head have been tested. There are only a few herd owners in the county who have refused to have their cattle tested and these herds are placed under quarantine as a means of protection for the rest of the county. Under the Modified Tuberculosis Free Area plan, Dearborn County has been claimed a Modified Free Area will for a period of three years. It probably expected that all cattle coming into the county will have been properly tested by an accredited veter-

The Purdue University Hortifall Horticultural Show, at the Purdue Green Houses Nov. 2, 3, and will be the fruit, flower and vegetable exhibits.

The vegetable gardening classes have tried in every instance to choose exhibits which would be interesting, practical and educational.
First on the list is the rat exhibit which furnishes a living proof of the abundance of vitamins in vegetables. The slogan, eat more vegetables and enjoy better health, is driven home with force in this feed-

BEST PLAN FOR HOG FATTENING SHOWN

Corn, Soybeans And Minerals Used
As Ration Developed Best Hogs,
Purdue Station Proves

RESULTS AT SWINE SHOW

Hogs Were Examined From Two Trials In Which Spring Pigs Were
Fattened From 75 To 220 Pounds

The corn-soybean-mineral ration developed by Purdue University Agricultural Experiment Station again proved its worth as a fattening ration for hogs as witnessed by 400 farmers who attended the third annual swine Day held recently at the University.

The average of three trials are reported by C. M. Vestal, in charge of this work with fattening hogs in drylot from a weight of 108 to 233 pounds, showed that the corn-soybean-mineral combination put on an average daily gain of 1.89 pounds at a cost of $6.18 per hundred against the standard corn and tankage rations daily gain of 1.84 pounds at a cost of $6.43. Corn and soybeans alone showed an average daily gain of 1.57 pounds at a cost of $6.52.

In figuring feed cost of gains corn was priced at 84 cents a bushel, soybeans at $1.25 a bushel, tankage at $65 a ton and mineral at 2 cents a pound. On the basis of these figures soybeans were worth $1.12 a bushel without mineral and with it $1.52 a bushel when compared with tankage at $65 a ton.

Hogs were exhibited from two trials in which spring pigs were being fattened from a weight of 75 to 220 pounds. Here the soybean-mineral combination was not quite as valuable as when used for fattening the heavier hogs, but again was more economical than the corn and tank-age ration. Ninety days self feeding in dry lot gave the following results:
corn alone produced an average daily gain of .81 pounds at a cost of $7.59 per hundred; corn and soybeans 1.35 pounds at $5.88; corn soybeans and mineral 1.60 pounds at $5.94; and corn and tankage 1.70 pounds at $6.07. The same rations self fed on alfalfa pasture showed for the corn alone ration a gain of 1.44 pounds daily at a cost of $5.79 per hundred; corn and soybeans 1.46 pounds at $5.58; corn soybeans and mineral 1.65 pounds at $5.66 and corn and tankage 1.76 pounds at $5.94.

202 FULTON FARMERS MAKE SOYBEAN TOUR

Second Annual Field Day Attracts
Big Crowd of Interested Farmers,
Surveying Matured Fields

The second annual Soybean Field Day was held in Fulton County recently, 202 farmers attending the meetings. The first part of the meeting was at the farm of H. C. Heigh-way. At this farm a very heavy crop of Manchou soybeans was examined and studied. The greatest interest at this place centered in the machine for cultivating the crop that Mr.
Heighway had rigged up. The implement consists of wheels and frame of an old corn cultivator, to which had been attached a beam holding spring toothed gangs, so placed as to cultivate four rows of soybeans at one time. To the beam were attached handles so that the implement could be easily guided by the man operating it. The second part of the meeting was at the farm of Web Beattie in Rochester Township, where the effect of inoculation of the seed on the vigor of the matured crop of hay could be seen. At this field were found alternating rows of beans with a corn planter using dirt for inoculation and leaving the rows 42 inches apart. He then went back over the field, straddling the original rows, thus getting the rows 21 inches apart.
On this later planting, some U. S.
Department of Agriculture inoculation was used. The government inoculated beans stand out strong and vigorously against the rows that were inoculated with the dirt.

DELIVERY PLAN AIDS DAIRYMEN

Four Day Delivery Plan Helps Dairymen And Creamerymen In Tests Made By Southern Farmers

Butter Made From Cream Marketed At Periods No Longer Than Four Days Apart, Scores Higher

Dairymen in a dozen southwestern Indiana counties have sold their cream on a four day delivery plan during the past summer and have been paid a premium of 3 cents per pound butterfat as a result, netting a nice return above the general market price and also improving the quality of the butter turned out by these creameries. The plan has been followed in Posey, Daviess, Gibson, Martin, Greene, Monroe, Sullivan, Knox, Orange, Vanderburg, and Clay counties.

Experimental work conducted at Purdue University showed that butter made from cream marketed at periods no longer than four days apart can score 90 or better providing the cream is properly cooled. During the dairymen's short course last winter at the university the proposal was made that some of the creameries endeavor to get their cream delivered by the producer on a four day basis instead of every week or ten days. The longer delivery period reduced the quality of cream and consequently the quality of butter.

Posey County was selected for the first trial and all creamery men and some producers attended a meeting which was addressed by Purdue men who had worked out the plan. It was put into effect within a short time and was so successful that it was extended to other counties in that part of the state.

Tags on the producers' can give the time of delivery, stamped there by the cream station operator. Then if the can comes back within the four days required, this time also is stamped or a new tag is issued with the time on it, and in this way an exact record is kept on the date of delivery by each farmer. The premium is not paid unless the cream comes within the required time and is free from objectionable flavors and odors. The plan is proving profitable alike to producers and manufacturers and will be extended to other counties.

This has become known as the Indiana plan and is being followed in Ohio and Illinois.

Demonstration Showing How to Eradicate Cockle

A unique demonstration of eradicating cockle before it gets a start is being conducted by Jackson County farmers, where the seed wheat is being cleaned on a community basis by the use of a disc separator, a machine that involves a new principle in seed cleaning.

The demonstration is being conducted by County Agent Willis Stall in co-operation with the Purdue University Agricultural Extension Department. The disc separator has been installed at the Farmer's Co-operative Elevator at Brownstown and during the month of September, 81 farmers cleaned nearly 2000 bushels of seed wheat from which nearly 200 bushels of cockle, cracked wheat and foreign material was removed. Brownstown is in the heart of a district badly infected with cockle. The farmers who have taken advantage of this opportunity are so enthusiastic over the results secured that one man lives 20 miles from Brownstown made a second trip in order to have all his seed wheat cleaned.

The seed is first put thru a fanning mill after which it is cleaned by the separator, which removes cockle, cheat, cracked grains etc., that can be taken out by no other known method. Many of the farmers are planning on using the clean seed at the rate of a bushel and a peck per acre instead of the customary bushel and a half per acre. According to Harry Lucas manager of the Elevator the cleaning process raises the test weight per bushel from one to three pounds. Purdue authorities believe that the use of the clean seed for three or four years will insure freedom from cockle seeds in the soil either ger-

 herds comply strictly with the terms of the quarantine. Dearborn County is the first county of the state to eradicate tuberculosis and become a Modified Free Area. This is largely due to the leadership and cooperation of M. C. Johnston, President of the Livestock Association and also cooperation of the Farm Federation officials and the farmers of the county. Testing has been begun in Ohio County with the object in mind of cleaning up the entire county and joining it to Dearborn County as a Modified Tuberculosis Free Area. Dr. Charles Walter now is working as an inspector in Ohio County herds.

rolled oats, semi-solid buttermilk and water, using one part semisolid buttermilk and 15 parts water, with enough rolled oats to make a thick slop. When the pigs were four months old soaked, ground wheat was added to the slop. The wheat was gradually increased and the rolled oats decreased. I fed all the slop the pigs would clean up twice a day, during the entire feeding period.

"In addition to the slop, the litter was self-fed shelled corn from weaning time on. During the last three weeks the corn was soaked. Tankage was also self-fed during the last three weeks, but the pigs did not take much of it. Block salt was kept before the pigs all the time, also a mineral mixture was fed once a week."

The 30 sows on Mr. Meal's farm farrowed 271 pigs last spring, and raised 214 of them, better than seven pigs to the litter. A purebred sire and dam, good rations and clean sanitary quarters made it possible for Mr. Meal to produce this wonderful litter. It's been the same story, with variations, for every-ton litter produced this year as well as last year.

Persistent production is very desirable in a dairy cow, but such an animal requires extra attention during the latter part of her lactation. A dairy cow has only two ways to dispose of the feed which she receives, put it on her back or put it in the pail. The real dairy cow does little of the former if she receives the proper kinds of feed. Succulent, juicy feeds and those rich in protein produce most milk, while dry, starchy feeds, such as timothy hay, ear corn and corn fodder are poor milk producers. The only time timothy hay can be called a dairy roughage is when a cow should be dried up. The first step in preparing a cow for her next lactation is to substitute dry roughage for some of the silage and give a grain ration containing less protein. In some cases, silage may have to be withheld entirely and only dry roughage fed.

"The best use for soybeans is for fattening hogs, thus saving the tankage, milk and shorts for the brood sows and growing pigs," said Mr. Vestal in discussing the results. "However, we are growing pigs successfully on the corn-soybean-mineral ration, beginning when the sows are bred.

"The soybean in the ration is especially important not only in Indiana but also throughout the corn-belt, as it gives the farmer a protein feed grown on his own farm. All of our experiments show that some protein feed is necessary to balance the corn ration for hogs to cheapen the cost and increase the rate of gain. Corn alone will not do," he concluded.

The experiment station has received hundreds of letters the last few months from all parts of the country asking about the soybean-mineral mixture and also has reports from scores of farmers who have used the ration successfully.

Fred Loew, former Huntington County Agent, now farming in that county, has eradicated a patch of Canada thistle with a thick stand of Grimm alfalfa sowed two years ago. This plan would work on other farms.

GIVES METHOD TO CONTROL RODENTS

Rats And Mice Are Most Destructive Pests And Barium Carbonate Treatment Is Suggested

WOODCHUCKS ALSO A PEST

Methods Of Control And Directions Given By Expert To Assist In Ridding Farms Of Them

The rodent pests, such as woodchucks, field mice and rats, are a source of great losses to the people of Indiana, every rat, for example, being responsible for a loss of $2.00 according to government authorities. During the past month the U. S. Biological Survey, through Carlisle Carr, has been co-operating with the Purdue University Agricultural Extension Department in organizing and conducting campaigns against these pests in several counties in southern Indiana, including Morgan, Johnson, Dearborn, Washington, Martin, Knox, Gibson and Parke. So successful has been the results that plans are being made for an initial campaign in 1924 to completely exterminate woodchucks or ground hogs in Morgan County.

For the control of woodchucks poison gases are used, while for field mice a poisoned oatmeal bait properly used has given excellent results.

Rats and home mice are among the most destructive rodent pests in Indiana, according to Mr. Carr. They may be best controlled by poisoning with barium carbonate with one of several attractive baits. Mr. Carr offers the following suggestions in poisoning rats and home mice: Three types of bait are available, meat baits such as hamburger and fish, cereal baits such as bread and rolled oats, and vegetables and fruits such as apple and canned corn. Mix one part of barium carbonate, which can be purchased at drug stores, with four parts by weight of the bait. Mix thoroughly, adding water when necessary to make the bait moist. Place a teaspoonful of the bait in a piece of newspaper, enclosing it by bringing the edges of the paper together and twisting. Set these about in places frequented by rats and mice. It is best to place all three types of bait out the first night, the second night altering the selection by using those baits which were eaten and substituting other baits of the same type of the baits least molested. Precautions should be taken to gather up the baits and destroy them. If in a chicken yard for ex-

More than 350 farmers from Michigan, Illinois, Ohio and fifteen northern Indiana counties gathered at W. M. Stauffer's field, near Akron, Ind. Sept. 27, and proved to their own satisfaction that 400 bushels of potatoes is not an impossibility in Indiana.

The meeting opened by inspection of the fields of Irish Cobblers Early Ohio and Rural New Yorkers planted from certified seed. Dr. Max Gardner of Purdue University Agricultural Experiment Station emphasized the importance of securing only highest grade certified seed potatoes in order to control the diseases which are causing great losses throughout the state. Certified seed being free from disease gives vigorous plants that produce large crops of high quality potatoes. Prof. S. D. Conner explained that careful experiments had proven that muck potatoes properly fertilized had higher quality than when grown in other types of soil. The use of 500 pounds of 2-12-6 fertilizer on high ground or 200 pounds of muriate of potash and 250 pounds of acid phosphate per acre on muck will give big increase. "Plant the potatoes on the richest pieces of soil on the farm and give it good care to get big yields," said Prof. Conner.

Mr. Stauffer, in speaking attributed his success to certified seed and properly fertilized soil, plus use of large size seed pieces and then following up with best cultural practices.

At noon a big chicken and potato dinner was served followed by talks by H. R. Smalley of Soils Improvement Committee National Fertilizer Association, Tom Baell, President, Michigan Potato Producers Association and Director G. I. Christie of the Purdue Experiment Station.

were fed all they would consume of a prepared ration which contained all the elements necessary for health except vitamins. Six of the twelve received in addition to this food,

all the ripe tomatoes that they would eat. The six receiving no tomatoes are undersized and already show signs of ill health, including the eye disease, Xerophthalmia, due to lack of vitamin A. By November 2 the results should be very outstanding and well worth seeing.

Another interesting feature of the show will be the canning exhibit. The vegetables used in the various canned products will be displayed near the canned goods, along with a brief statement of the extent of the canning industry in Indiana and in the United States. It will be especially interesting to see how Indiana ranks among other states in the production of canned foods.

Another exhibit will show the Vegetables which are in season during the various months of the year. In addition to the foregoing the vegetable variety exhibits will attract considerable attention. This exhibit will show kinds and varieties of vegetables which are in season during the various months of the year. M'CRAV MADE PLAINTIFF

Attica, Ind., Oct. 9.—Gov. Warren T. McCray was named plaintiff in a suit for breach of contract filed in circuit court here Monday. The suit with Luke Duffey, Indianapolis named as the other plaintiff, asks $15,000 damages against Miriam McDonald and her daughter, Alice McDonald, charging that the defendants refused to sell the Banner Stock Farm to the plaintiffs although the time limit on a contract for the farm had not expired. The farm in question is two miles north of West Lebanon.

CORN CROP NOW KING OF GRAINS

Has Crossed The Dollar Mark and is Highest Price in Three Years—Abundant Yield

SUPPLY SETS THE PRICE

Country Has Consumed Its Output of Old Corn, Which Puts New Crop on High Level

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 10.—Corn has crossed the dollar line in most of the leading markets, the highest price in three years. Prices are up 8½ to 11½ cents a bushel since Sept. 17, and the new crop is just beginning to move from the farm. Dollar corn makes this the king of grains, and the crop in Indiana is the largest in years.

Actual necessity has advanced corn in all markets. The country has consumed its corn supplies in ten months and old corn is so scarce in some sections of the corn belt that farmers are using the new crop, which is selling around 65 cents, or almost 25 cents a bushel more than a year ago. The 65-cent price for the new crop is declared to be well above the production cost and is a money getter for the farmers. The old corn, now selling around $1 and over, pays the farmer handsome profits, and those who raise corn, cattle and hogs are declared to have no complaint.

Corn at $1 is around 3 to 5 cents higher than No. 1 northern wheat in Winnipeg, which is considered the best wheat in the world, and farmers in western Canada are marketing at the rate of more than 4,000,000 bushels daily.

While wheat farmers in Minnesota and the Dakotas are complaining because they are not getting more for their wheat, it is significant that they are getting more than the Canadian farmers. The Minneapolis market for December wheat is $1.18½ and May wheat is $1.22½, with cash wheat there at $1.16½ to $1.26½, depending on the grade. This is the highest wheat market in the country, outside the seaboard. It proves the part the tariff is playing in helping the price of grain in the northwest. The grain duty of 30 cents a bushel is performing, for this is substantially the difference between the price in Winnipeg and Minneapolis.

Farmers in some sections of the northwest have marketed much of their wheat and are holding the rest for higher prices.

GUARDSMEN HELP FIGHT FOREST FIRE

Several Small Communities in Wisconsin Are In Danger And Many Homes Destroyed

ONE PERSON BURNED TO DEATH

Superior, Wis., Oct. 10.—National guardsmen today are assisting hundreds of citizens in Douglas county to fight forest fires which threaten to sweep several villages.

Governor J. J. Blaine last night ordered Company R of the Wisconsin national guard to the scene. The fires have been in progress for several days, and last reports were that they are spreading.

The village of Blueberry, Lake Nebagamon, Hawthorne, and several other small communities are in danger, according to the reports.

Back-firing through heavy brush is being carried on by hundreds of volunteers and it is believed with the help of the guardsmen they will be able to check the flames for a time at least, unless the wind changes.

One person was burned to death yesterday. Many homes have been destroyed and several highways have been closed to traffic.

The first fatality of the fires thus far came when Mildred Koivu, 8-years old, wandered into the woods near Mohawk, Mich., and was burned to death.

Indianapolis Markets

Indianapolis, Oct. 10.—A mixed tone prevailed in hog prices here today, with heavies and mixed grades selling steady and lights showing losses ranging from 5 to 10 cents. Good packing and shipping demand sustained heavy and mixed values, while seasonal weakness in light hogs caused the drop in that grade. Receipts were 8,500.

Heavies sold from $8.30 to $8.35, with one load at $5.40. Mixed brought from $8.20 to $8.30 and lights $8.15 to $8.25. Pigs were steady at $7.75 and sows were unchanged.

Influence of heavy receipts, 1,200, caused weakness in cattle trading. Only a few loads of good steers were offered for sale.

Calf prices were steady in a fairly active market, top veal containing $13.50 and the bulk moving at $12.50 to $13. Receipts 700.

Sheep and lambs ruled steady, with lambs at $13 down and sheep at $6 down. Receipts 600.

German Executives Given Wide Authority For Six Months in Bill on Third Reading

By CARL D. GROAT
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Berlin, Oct. 10.—The Stresemann cabinet is given dictatorial powers for six months in the bill that passed its second reading shortly before midnight.

The measure may be rushed through its third reading.

The government can no longer evade the issue raised by Hugo Stinnes, who it now appears, sought a virtual industrial dictatorship.

Replies from Belgium and France unanimously rejected Stresemann's proposal for immediate negotiations, the chancellor must settle definitely whether his cabinet, big business or labor is going to run Germany.

Stresemann should be waiting to hear from the allies before taking the fight with Stinnes. The latter was called a traitor in the Reichstag by a communist deputy and it was noticeable that President Loeb did not reprove the speaker.

RUSH COUNTY WILL HAVE 13 DELEGATES

Appointment For Republican State Convention Is Announced By Shortemier

ONE FOR EACH 400 VOTES

Rush county will be entitled to thirteen delegates in the next Republican state convention, according to the appointment announced today by Frederick E. Shortemier, secretary of the state committee.

The convention will have 1,350 delegates, being smaller than the last convention when the apportionment was based on the vote cast in 1920, a presidential election, which always bring out the maximum vote. For the 1924 convention, the apportionment is based on the vote for secretary of state at the 1922 election. Each county receives one delegate for each 400 votes, or fraction equal to one-half or more of 400. Rush county's vote was 5396.

The date for the state convention has not yet been fixed by the state committee, but Chairman Walb will call a meeting, early next year to complete plans. Precedent favors the selection of a convention date in May.

Announcement of the republican apportionment is the first made by either of the two big political parties of preliminary plans looking toward the next campaign. The Democratic apportionment, which will be on the same basis as that of the Republicans, will give a smaller convention than that of the G. O. P., due to the latter having carried the last election for secretary of state.

Annual Meeting Of Rush County Farmers Insurance Association To Have Special Business

MEETS SATURDAY AT 10 A. M.

The annual meeting of the Rush County Farmers Insurance association will be held Saturday at the court house in this city and a large representation of the membership is expected, on account of the important business that is to come before the meeting for their approvals.

The constitution and by-laws will be changed to conform with state regulations, as the legislature has passed a law putting co-operative associations under state supervision, and these questions will come before the meeting for their approval.

On account of the large scope of business that is planned for the meeting Saturday, it will be necessary to call the session to order at ten o'clock in the morning, instead of the afternoon as in former years.

L. R. Webb, actuary, has prepared his annual report and it will be read at the session. According to Mr. Webb, the report this year is most favorable, and will show a steady gain in membership and a decrease in fires during the year.

REALTY COMPANY

National City Realty Company, Headed By Goodrich, Charged With Making False Report

MAY REVOKE ITS LICENSE

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 10.—Representatives of the National City Realty company, headed by James P. Goodrich, former governor of Indiana, were called before the state securities commission here Tuesday to show reason's why the company's license to issue stock should not be revoked.

The commission demanded why it paid $27,000 in dividends during the first six months of 1923 when its annual report is said to have shown a loss of $10,000. The case was continued pending an investigation.

Although there is some question whether the securities commission has authority to act in this specific case, it will investigate the transaction and obtain the firm's explanation. The payment of dividends from funds other than those accumulated from earnings is specifically forbidden under a state law passed in 1921, but the statute does not come directly under the "blue sky" law.

"The affair is too silly to mention," Goodrich asserted in announcing he would not attend the meeting.

Action on the same case was postponed on Sept. 25 when the firm was not properly represented.

The securities commission is composed of Attorney General U. S. Lesh, Ora Davies, state treasurer; Ed Jackson, secretary of state.

LEGISLATURE WILL DENY WALTON OFFER

Oklahoma Legislators Will Not Accept Governor's Proposal To Re-sign If They Pass Law

AGAINST KU KLUX KLAN

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 10.—The Oklahoma legislature meeting at 9 a. m., tomorrow, will refuse to accept the offer of Governor J. C. Walton to resign provided anti-Ku Klux Klan laws are immediately enacted, leading legislators declared today.

"We will first take up an investigation of the governor's conduct in office with a view of bringing impeachment proceedings" said W. D. McBee, head of the anti-Walton faction which controls a majority of the votes of the lower house.

"The governor has made his bed—let him lie in it," declared McBee.

Governor Walton said in case the legislature would take up and pass anti-Klan legislation he would sign the minute a bill which he proposed became a law.

However, in case the legislators launched the investigation of his administration, without first taking up the proposed laws aimed at the Ku Klux Klan, the governor declared "I will fight to the last ditch."

Rushville's Advantages

Citizens of Rushville will not be wasting their time if they read over the list of suggestions regarding "The Advantages of Rushville," published in the Daily Republican Tuesday evening, because it will serve to put them in a better frame of mind.It is human to be critical, and some of us are a bit too human in this respect. By dwelling on some of the good things concerning our city, we will in time come to see it as others see it. It is natural that all of us should be blind to our advantages because they are on our doorstep. Distant fields are always greener. Indeed, we may become too self-satisfied, but satisfaction need not deteriorate the quality of our enthusiasm for healthful improvement.The thing that Rushville most needs to learn—that every city, in fact, should realize—is that its future depends not so much on the new factories that may be imported, but upon making the most of what it has; exploiting to the utmost its own resources so that they will yield the greatest possible profit for the whole community.Rushville people have always known in a general way that Rush county raised a lot of hogs. Few here realized that their country was the largest hog producing county in the world. A group of men set about to advertise this fact and now it is accepted. Even the school geographies recognize it. Rush county hog breeders have been inspired to greater efforts. This year Rush county produced the first ton litter and theheaviest ton litter in the state. Thus does making the most of what we have count. It is up to every local citizen of the community to make his business the best business possible, because in that way he not alone helps himself but all of his neighbors.

The Great Day

Professional baseball has had its ups and downs during the last few years. It is just now having one of its "ups." The opening of the world's series today finds the fans of the nation never more enthusiastic. The nation is described as "baseball mad." Even the most expert alienists would not attempt to do anything for it this week. After the suspense of the first games is over there may be a lucid interval.According to the adage, money talks, and it has been especially eloquent regarding these games upon which the championship depends.
Every ticket is taken at high prices for the initial encounter. Two years ago, it may be recalled, there was no such rush for seats in the grandstand. They were easily obtainable by those who had the cash. This condition reflects the improved standing of the pastime with the discriminating portion of public. Commissioner Landis has helped to restore general confidence in the squareness of these contests. This is the foundation of the games prosperity.People go to see a fairly fought, keenly competitive battle for the pennant. The theory that professional baseball could flourish merely as an exhibition of skill and agility, after the fashion of an acrobatic performance in a circus has been pretty well exploded by the fact that when doubt was cast on the good faith of certain players the attendance immediately fell off and did not get back to normal until the housecleaning took place.Baseball is firmly entrenched as the national pastime so long as it is kept clean and above suspicion. It must also be guarded against rowdiness on the part of either players or spectators. The country looks to this world's series to set a new high mark for genuine sportsmanship un-marred by petty bickerings and meannesses. Whichever contender captures the pennant, we shall expect to see good losers as well as good winners.

Basketball Team of Rushville Township School Will Meet Burney Here on Friday Night

SCHEDULE IS ANNOUNCED

Webb Engages Modern Appliance Building For All of This Season's Games at Home

The Webb high school of Rushville township, just southwest of this city, will pry open the basketball lid in the county on Friday night, when the team will tackle the high school team of Burney, Decatur county, and the game will be played in this city.

The Webb school officials have rented the Modern Appliance building in this city for their home games this season, and the game Friday night will formally dedicate their new gymnasium.

The Webb team has a good schedule of games for the season, and the team has been putting in some good ticks at practice. Talbert was the only veteran lost by graduation last spring, and the team is also strengthened this fall by several new players.

Howard Patterson of New Salem is the coach, and last year he had a successful season at Fountain City, where his team went to the final game at the Richmond sectional, and was defeated by the strong Richmond team.

With Webb playing in this city, the games will conflict only a few times with the schedule of the Graham high school, and of course the latter games will be played on the floor of the Graham Annex.

The complete schedule for the Webb high school is as follows:

Oct. 12, Webb vs Burney at Rushville.
Oct. 26, Webb vs Carthage at Carthage.
Nov. 2, Webb vs New Salem at New Salem.
Nov. 9, Webb vs Center at Rushville.
Nov. 16, Webb vs Manila at Rushville.
Nov. 23, Webb vs Raleigh at Rushville.
Nov. 28, Webb vs Moscow at Blue Ridge.
Dec. 7, Webb vs Arlington at Arlington.
Dec. 14, Webb vs Moscow at Rushville.
Dec. 21, Open.
Jan. 4, Webb vs Manila at Manila.
Jan. 11 or 12, Webb vs Fountain City at Rushville.
Jan. 18, Webb vs Carthage at Rushville.
Jan. 25, Webb vs Arlington at Rushville.
Feb. 9, Tourney at Carthage.
Feb. 15, Webb vs Raleigh at Raleigh.
Feb. 22, Webb vs New Salem at Rushville.
Feb. 29, District tourney.

May Change Pitchers' Rules

(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Oct. 10.—When the major league club owners meet this winter to seek remedies for any defects that might have been apparent in the "national pastime" during the past season, it is probable that some relief for pitchers may be considered.

It is a generally accepted fact that the restrictions placed upon pitchers by the rules enacted several years back to curb illegal deliveries have stopped trick pitching and practically every other kind of pitching.

The bars that were raised against the use of any foreign substance on the ball and the introduction of the rabbit-ball were designed primarily to increase hitting. The plans, if they were such, surely succeeded and now the rule makers find themselves in a place where they feel they should do something to curb the excess of slugging.

From the statements of many of the players, measures to make clouting less of a common art were tried out during the past season when some less lively balls were put in play. While hitting was no doubt reduced, the difficulties of the players were increased because they never knew how to play the ball.

The National League, it is understood, is willing to amend the present pitching rules to permit the use of the resin on the fingers to allow pitchers to get a better grip on the ball. It was suggested that abuses of the privilege could be avoided by having the umpires place a small sack of resin near the pitcher's box and see that only a small amount would be applied occasionally to the finger tips.

Several National League club owners have expressed their approval of this suggestion as they agree that pitchers have imposed upon them too much of a handicap and that the resultant hitting is hurting the game.

Soon after the present rules became effective it was realized that the obligation of handling a brand new ball without violating the rules was decreasing the effectiveness of pitchers and the umpires were instructed to remove as much gloss as possible from the balls before they were put in play.

The only effective way of doing this was to wet the surface of the ball and this, too, had its bad features because the cover was softened and made the ball more easily blemished and scarred by striking the screen, the earth or any part of the stands.

I. U. READY FOR BIG TEN CONTEST

Football Squad Will Spend Time This Week On Its Offense Against Northwestern

GRID FAME AT INDIANAPOLIS

Both Teams Are Reported Stronger This Year And A Terrific Battle Is To Be Expected

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 10.—The Indiana University football team is spending most of its time this week in the perfection of an offense for its opening Big Ten game with Northwestern next Saturday at Indianapolis. "Navy Bill" Ingram promises to work his men overtime during the few remaining days before the game with the Purple.

The day of this contest has been designated as "Big Ten" day in Indianapolis. Parades of the rival eleven, pep sessions, alumni reunions of both Big Ten schools, and a reception and dance for Indiana students and alumni following the game are on the day's program. More than 1,000 Northwestern rooters will accompany their team on an excursion from Evanston. The presidents of both Indiana and Northwestern are expected to attend. Both Indiana and Northwestern are reported stronger this year and a terrific battle for Big Ten honors is expected.

The varsity scrimmaged every day last week but used only simple plays on the offense. The first string men found little trouble in tearing up the scrubs and gained nearly at will with straight football. Leslie Mann's freshman team provided more serious opposition, but even then the varsity broke away repeatedly for long gains.

Wilkins, Sloate, and Moomaw, the three veterans of the backfield, are showing up well and seem almost certain of starting against Northwestern, though Marks, Vivich, and Lober also are to be counted on in the selection of the backfield.

If no accidents occur before the game next Saturday, the starters in the Indiana line very likely will be the same men who have formed the varsity forward wall most of the time to date. These men are Capt. "Stew" Butler, center; Leo Middlestadt, and Irvin Springer, guards; George Fisher, and Bill Zaiser, tackles, and Sam Ninness and Dick Woodward, ends. Fisher, Zaiser, Middlestadt are sophomores. Coach Ingram also has promising candidates for the line in Parsell, McCool, and Redman, guards; Reynolds and Hoblick, tackles; and Knoy and Bernoske ends.

Minor injuries cropped out on the squad during the last week but most of the players are expected to be back in condition in time for Northwestern next Saturday.

JOE CANNON WATSON
"SOLD" ON YANKEES

Joe Cannon Watson, son of Senator and Mrs. James E. Watson, according to a Washington dispatch to the Indianapolis Star, which prints the following today:

Take it from Joe Watson the Yanks will skin the Giants in the world's series beginning tomorrow.

Joe is the 15-year-old son of Senator James E. Watson. He is an enthusiastic baseball fan and has the record of every player at his finger tips. Babe Ruth is his idol. Here is the "low down" as Joe gave it in an exclusive interview tonight:

"The Yanks entered last year's world's series with poor spirit and low morale, but this year they are all pepped up and full of confidence. I figure, considering this season's records of the different players, that the Yanks are sure to clean up on the series. I don't know who will win the first game, but I count on the Yanks to be the champions when the series has been completed.

"Babe Ruth is big stuff. He is hitting and fielding in wonderful fashion. No matter whether he connects with a home run, he is going to get a lot of good hits when they mean runs. Herb Hoyt hasn't pulled the stuff this year like Penneck, but he should also be helpful to the Yanks. The Giants are doomed."

CONDITIONS FINE
FOR THE OPENER

Weather Bright And Fair And Perfect For Playing And For Seeing World Series Game

RIVAL MANAGERS HOPEFUL

Only Thing New About Classic This Year Is Two Million Dollar Yankee Stadium

New York, Oct. 10.—New York's annual favorite festival—the battle between the Giants and Yankees for the city and world's baseball championship—dropped today upon a slightly increased population.

Ideal condition just as good as could have been ordered prevailed and all advance indications pointed to an open game attendance that would shatter all records.

The weather, bright and fair was perfect for playing and for seeing the first game of the third series played between the New York National and American League pennant winners.

Pressed for statements, John McGraw and Miller Huggins, managers of the rival clubs, said they were hopeful and that the change in the betting to even money represented their notion that "it was a toss-up."

The only thing new about the series this year is the field of battle for the opener which will be in the new two million dollar Yankee stadium. The Yanks will act as the home club today and have charge of the cash register which probably will ring up the greatest sum that has ever been paid for one game of the series.

Ed. Barrow, business manager of the Yanks announced that all the reserved for the three Yank games had been sold and that he was sure the 36,000 unreserved seats which will be put on sale at 10 o'clock will be sold at noon. The crowd probably will reach 65,000.

With some obvious pleasure, Miller Huggins announced this morning that the same team which ran away with the American League pennant would face the Giants. Wally Pipp, with his improved ankle, will hold down first base and Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel will have the flank positions in the outfield.

Huggins laughed when it was suggested that the Giants would carry a bunt attack to Pipp and he countered with the intimation that Pipp would be no more indefensible in front of a bunt than Heinie Groh, the worn and torn Giant third baseman.

Neither Huggins nor McGraw would say anything definite about their pitching selection but it was considered almost sure that the opening game would be a left handed battle between Art Nehf and Herb Penneck, the leading port-siders of the two clubs.

Mule Watson, the reformed prodigal of the Giants may get the choice if Nehf does not have his stuff before the game and Sam Jones probably will be the second choice of Huggins.

Huggins may decide his pitcher only after he becomes certain as to whom McGraw will toss into the box.

Commissioner Landis has made several minor but important changes in the rules to prevent a repetition of last year's trouble when one of the games was called on account of darkness while the sun was still shining.

Landis has ordered Billy Evans, who will be in charge of the umpires today, to have his staff on the field at 1:50. There are 12 ground rules to be explained all around and with ten minutes it is figured that the game will start promptly at 2 o'clock.

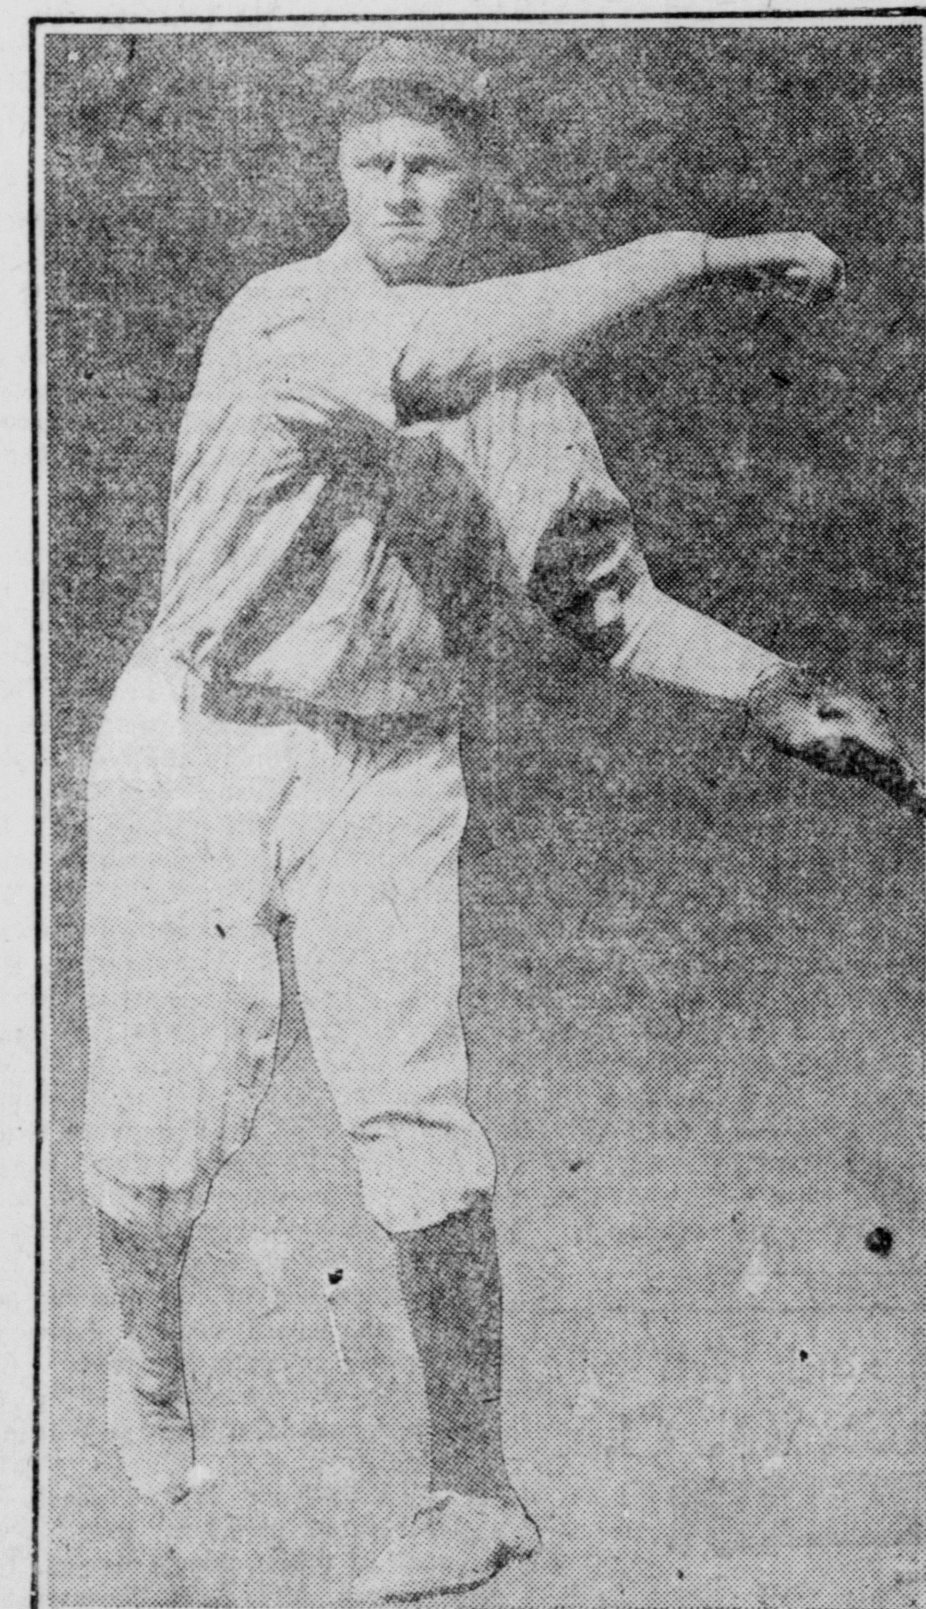

Landis also told the umpires that the commissioner, a representative and the manager of each club would decide how long a game is to be continued to be played upon but the umpire behind the plate will have to decide how long a game is to be continued under adverse conditions.

The umpires maintain that it will be the hardest series to call ever played because of the shadows in both the stadium and the Polo Grounds. They claim it is almost impossible to judge a low ball accurately after four o'clock.

Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, the noted team of baseball comedians, will do their usual stunts before the game and music will be furnished by the Seventh Regiment band.

Commissioner Landis will throw out the first ball. He tried to get Governor Smith to do the honor but Smith had a previous engagement and Mayor Hylan is ill.

IT'S CIRCUS DAY
IN NEW YORK CITY

Big Show is on at Yankee Stadium With McGraw and Huggins as Ring Masters

PALE BLUE OCTOBER SKY

May be "Little 'Ole NYawk's" Private Drama But Home Fire Boys Will Be In On It

New York, Oct. 10.—It's circus day in New York.

The big show is on at the Yankee stadium with John McGraw and Miller Huggins as the high-hatted ring masters.

A pale blue October sky is the top. Instead of three rings there's only one loop—and that interesting spot is a diamond.

The Yanks and Giants will perform to the whip cracking of their masters in the greatest baseball show of the season. But the ponies in this tragedy get more than oats. Most anybody would be glad to garner the golden fodder they'll be fed from check-books at the end of the exhibition.

It may be "little 'ole NYawk's" private drama but there are a flock of sapolios from Muncie and Council Bluffs peering over the fence and telegraph wires will be the eyes and ears through which the home fire boys will filter their conversation and argument data for the base burner season.

There'll be enough word battles canned this week to keep the starving fans nourished until the training season sun thaws the national pastime heroes out of their winter hibernating spots next spring.

New York's streets, always bulging with storming traffic, were bent out of line today with the added population of baseball customers from out yonder. All that was needed to film Lafayette's spring circus day scene was a parade of red wagons and a couple of cages of mangy lions.

The first laddie to start the all-night vigil at the bleacher ticket cage was Archie Yarish, 18, whiskerless and from Brooklyn. He arrived in the scene at 6:30 last evening, squatted on a soap box and waited out Father Time's minute pitching.

He arose from his sitting slumber with the first rays of the sun, yawned, stretched—then sat down again. "Great day for the game," he said to the waiters, augmented to fifty strong during the long night. He picks the Yanks to win. So do most of the others.

Marty Belasco—no kin to Dave—from the Bronx, Daniel Grey and Pollock Mack, both from Hartford, Conn., were next in line. Harold Miller, dapper and modish, who left his downy couch in the Easton Pa., Y. M. C. A. to stay out all night in New York was well up in front and Gene McLelland, 27, came all the way from Los Angeles, Calif., to glimpse the series.

The most picturesque type on the waiting list was P. J. Rourke, 64, the sheriff of New Haven county, Conn. The icicles were being melted off his drooping gray moustache by the steam from his corn cob boiler as he stood before the reserved seat cage—the first in that line.

All the night shift boys favored the Yanks as victors, some in four straight games, the more conservative predicting four out of six games.

Many who joined the line during the night were driven to cover by crisp breezes of early morning hours, according to police on guard throughout the night.

At 6:30 o'clock today—after Archie Yarish had been on duty twelve hours the crowd began to gather and line up. The police squad was increased. The big show began to take shape. But it was no summer pastime. It was chilly enough for a grid-iron scramble.

FELT TIRED, SO TIRED

Indiana Lady Says She Was Run-Down, Suffered With Her Back, Took Cardui, and Got Well.

Richmond, Ind.—"I thought I would write a line or so, to say that I owe my good health and strength to Cardui," says a letter from Mrs. Cora Courtney, 31 Railroad Street, this city.

"I was all run-down until my family thought they would lose me," writes Mrs. Courtney. "My husband coaxed me to take Cardui, so, to please him, I did, and will say I do not regret it, for I am able to do all my work and do my shopping."

"I have five children, four in school, my husband and a boarder to do for, and I do all my own work for all of us, and find time to play. We all praise Cardui. Every sick and run-down woman should take this wonderful medicine."

"I suffered with my back; a very weak feeling in my limbs."

"I felt hardly able to drag; just tired—so tired all the time."

"It was an effort for me to do anything, but Cardui helped me so I felt like a different woman."

If you are in a run-down physical condition, suffering as this Indiana lady says she did, give Cardui a fair trial. It should help you.

Take Cardui. NC-147

The deceased is survived by no nearer relatives than cousins and other distant relations, and she was extensively related in that manner in this county to the Casady and Meredith families, and with similar relations in California and other states. L. K. Tingley of Connersville was a nephew.

The funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at two o'clock at the late home 420 North Morgan street, where she had been living with Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Warren for several months. The services will be in charge of the Rev. H. W. Hargett, and burial will be made in East Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Susch Tingley was the widow of the late Benjamin Franklin Tingley, who died in 1902, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Casady, early settlers of this county.

They came to this county from Ohio in 1819, and settled here three years before the county was surveyed. She was born a mile west of the present court house, across Hodges branch on April 7, 1824, on the same land that her parents had entered.

When they took up their home there, there was just one cabin in this vicinity, and that was a small clearing where what is now the "lower grave yard" is located at the foot of Jackson street and Flatrock river. This cabin belonged to Judge Laughlin, who figured so prominently in the early history of the city and county.

Mrs. Tingley's memory was exceptionally clear on historic points, even until a few days before her death, and she would frequently indulge in reminiscences of the past.

Her father died while she was a baby in arms, but she held many fond memories of her mother, whose stay on earth was all too brief after Susan's arrival—just sixteen years to be exact.

"When mother came to die," Mrs. Tingley would often reminisce, just as if it was only yesterday, "Sis," she said, "I have raised you to be a good girl and I know you will continue to be one. That always helped me because she had confidence in me."

Aunt Susan also would frequently remark, when talking about her age, "I don't know why I am allowed to live so long. I am no good for anything. I can't do anything." Then she would pause and add, "But I have my friends," and in those few words she expressed the joy that comes to the slanting years of life.

She had a philosophy of life and would often repeat to visitors, "Let your conscience be your guide. Do your best and be content and trust in the Lord for the rest," and that was her code of ethics, her rule of conduct by which she had lived these many years.

One day when Susan Casady was 15 years old, a young man came to the neighborhood from Ohio with his parents, and they settled on an adjoining farm. His name was Benjamin Franklin Tingley, and a courtship was begun, which ended when Susan was 21 and her sweetheart, 23. They were wedded and lived happily together for 56 years, all of which time, excepting five years, was spent in this city. Those five years were spent in LaFontaine and Wabash.

In speaking of her married life, Aunt Susan would frequently offer good advice, "We never quarreled," she would say, "Whenever there was a dispute between us, we always talked it over and he always let me have my own way. If folks today would do that way and not be too hasty there wouldn't be so many divorcees."

Her husband served two terms as county clerk, served in the state legislature in 1873, was superintendent of the cemetery, treasurer of the Masonic lodge and was a public spirited citizen. He met with business reverses and left the widow practically penniless in 1902.

"But I have never suffered for anything," Aunt Susan would frequently recall, "because I have always felt that the Lord would take care of me, and he has."

Mrs. Tingley, until her last illness compelled her to be bedfast, always occupied the same chair which is over a hundred years old, and in which she sat when the picture which appears with this article, was taken.

A Worth-while Reputation

THE head of one of this country's great manufacturing institutions says:

"The man who builds and the man who buys are both beneficiaries of reputation. To the one it is a continuous spur and incentive—to the other, the strongest of all guarantees that what he buys is worthy."

Patronize the manufacturer or merchant who has a reputation for honesty and fair dealing. Such motives must actuate the consistent advertiser. The man who invests real money in building a reputation for himself and his merchandise cannot afford to risk any of it by taking unfair advantage of his customers. He must retain the goodwill of the buying public. Without this, his business cannot succeed.

Every time he advertises he puts his reputation in your hands. His products or the wares he has for sale must make good. His service must be as advertised.

That is why it pays to read advertisements, to deal with advertisers and to buy advertised goods.

Vigorous Old Age

WHY separate youth and old age with a deep and ever-widening abyss?

The bloom of youth and the hardy, ruddy glow of Old Age—sixteen and sixty—should be separated only by the span of years and not by varying differences of physical wholesomeness.

Vigorous old age is within the grasp of all. S. S. S. brings that hale and hearty feeling back with a rush. Rich red blood is the greatest enemy of weakening, health undermining Old Age. S. S. S. builds Red Blood Cells. Rich, red blood coursing through your veins sweeps away impurities that retard the proper functioning of your system. Old Age—once a dreaded agony becomes a vigorous, enjoyable, care free time of life.

S. S. S. is made of carefully selected herbs and herbs—scientifically prepared and proportioned. Welcome Old Age when it comes. Be ready to withstand the attacks of diseases that follow in its wake. Meet Old Age with a hearty handshake. A handshake that speaks of well being—of a vigorous, clear thinking, red blooded constitution. S. S. S. is your best friend when Old Age is seen rounding the corner. Get a bottle and drive care and worry away. All leading drug stores carry it. The large size is the more economical.

ous East Room at the White House in Washington. These chimes are unexcelled for harmony and richness of tone, and are played with artistic effect.

The evening's entertainment is unusually diversified. There are selections in ensemble consisting of viola, 'cello, piano, guitar, ukelele, cornet, as well as solo numbers on these various instruments and whistling solos. Miss Leonora Cheney gives delightful readings and musical monologues.

Selections from the best-known operas, fine overtures, and many of the musical numbers that are best-loved by all, are used to make up the programs of the Cheney company, grouped in a manner that will be enjoyed by every class of hearer.

STEEL INDUSTRY IS A BAROMETER

Indicates Rather Unsettled Condition, Being Largest Factor in Our Economic Life

PRICES REMAIN STEADY

Buyers Will Not Place Orders and Manufacturers Cannot Complete Their Plans For Output

By BRUCE SHORT
President, Engineering Sales Corporation
(Written for United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 10.—The steel industry, the largest factor in our economic life is taken as a barometer of business and today indicates a rather unsettled condition. The price of steel in virtually all classes of production has remained steady for the last six months and now is at the stage where the buyers and sellers of it do not know which way the cat is going to jump. They don't know whether the price will move upward or downward or whether it will continue stationary.

This leads to a condition in which the buyers will not place orders and the manufacturers of steel products cannot complete their plans for output for future delivery. Occupying the unique position as a barometer of trade, the condition of the steel market is being reflected in other lines of business.

Since Tubal Cain, humanity, has been a constant user of steel, which word is used in a generic sense embracing iron, plain steel, tin and the mixture of different alloys with the pig iron.

When considering the main purposes for which steel is used, it is easy to understand the barometric application. It enters into practically every phase of economic life.

In the home, there are steel cooking utensils, steel stoves, heated with gas conducted through steel pipes or coal delivered on steel rails, water either from steel water mains or steel pumps and so on to the table service. There was a time when these appliances were not used generally, but then steel was not a barometer.

The home really is the pivot around which all else rotates. Thus we find a commodity on which future operations are based.

If steel prices are high, the price of agricultural implements is determined in proportion, the farmer will have to ask more money for his products and transportation costs will be higher, because steel enters into the manufacture of automobiles and railroad equipment.

All of this makes the necessities of the home cost more and thereby materially effects the cost of living.

DR. COOK WILL BE PLACED ON TRIAL

To be Tried on Charges of Fraudulent Use of Mails in Fort Worth Federal Court Oct. 15

21 ASSOCIATES CALLED ALSO

Fort Worth, Texas, Oct. 10.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who fourteen years ago electrified the world with the announcement he had discovered the North Pole, will be placed on trial in Federal District Court here Oct. 15, on charges of fraudulent use of the mails.

With him, twenty-one of his alleged associates in the promotion of the Petrolina Producers' Association here last year will be called to account.

Cook and a few others are expected to plead not guilty. Cook will charge, according to statements he has issued, that the Government's prosecution of him was inspired by the big oil interests of the country.

The trial will be presided over by Judge John N. Killits of Toledo, Ohio especially assigned here for this and other oil fraud cases.

Cook's chief counsel will be former United States Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey.

The number of witnesses to be examined will be greater, according to forecast of court officials, than in any other mail fraud case ever tried.

Cook has been in the oil promotion business here for four years. He was stopped last Summer, when the Post Office Department issued a "fraud order" against him, barring him from use of the mails.

It was in September, 1909, that Cook became internationally famous, when he sailed into Copenhagen, Denmark, with the assertion he had found the North Pole. A few months later he was branded by various scientific bodies as a faker. Now the Government charges him with humbuggery in the sale of half a million dollars' worth of oil stock to people throughout the country.

TRY A WANT AD

FAVORS BUSES FOR ELECTRIC LINES

E. D. Emmons, President of Electric Railway Association Urges Their Use, in Convention Address

DO BUSES PAY IS ARGUMENT

Important Fact, However, is Electric Railways Give Kind of Service They Demand

Atlantic City, Oct. 10.—Use of buses by electric railways in extending their service was strongly urged today by E. D. Emmons, president of the American Electric Railway Association, at the convention of his organization here. Emmons, president of the Baltimore Railway Company, is one of a hundred electric railway heads in the United States now giving bus service.

"Within the last year there has been a great increase in the number of electric railway companies operating buses," he said. "More than 100 electric railway companies now are operating more than 1,000 buses. They have invested upwards of $6,000,000 in them and hundreds of thousands of dollars in garages and service stations and equipment. Two companies alone have invested more than a million dollars in buses during the last year.

"Whether bus transportation is profitable at present is open to argument—in some places it is and in others it is not. Where buses can be operated in densely populated districts and where the hauls are short, they can be operated profitably at street car fares, but in general transportation they can serve the public only at a higher fare. Problems connected with proper design of bodies, proper apportionment of weight on axles, proper tires and other equipment, as well as accounting systems that will make it possible to determine the real cost of operating buses have yet to be worked out.

"The important fact, from the standpoint of the public, is that the electric railways are giving the people the kind of service they demand, and are giving it on regular schedules, regardless of weather, and at the lowest possible rates of fare.

"Practical working out of Detroit's municipal operation of street railways has been failure to keep promises of a 5-cent fare and to issue more bonds to run the road," he said. The so-called $1,000,000 profit during the first year's operations, reported last May, faded quickly under increased labor costs, he insisted.

"The Detroit fare raise is at such variance with the announcement of a 'million-dollar profit in the first year of operation' that people of that city must be wondering what became of the million. Those who are not acquainted with finance assume that a 'profit' is money in the bank or, at least, money available for use. In this case the rather substantial 'profit' was invested or pledged before the public found out that the city had it, so that now the city turns to increased fares and to another bond issue to provide a semblance of the service promises made prior to the city's taking over the railways."

The convention will last until Friday. About 5,000 electric railway men from throughout the United States are present.

ACCUSED OF $600 STATION ROBBERY

James Dinkens Goes On Trial Today In Circuit Court, As Result Of Robbery Here In 1921

BIG FOUR FREIGHT STOLEN

Prosecutor Outlines Case To Jury, Implicating Dinkens And James Palmer Of The Crime

James Dinkens, Indianapolis resident, and formerly of this city, was on trial today in the circuit court on a charge of grand larceny, being more specifically charged with robbing the Big Four depot in this city in August, 1921, when it is alleged that $600 worth of merchandise was stolen.

The jury which sat in a case here Monday against Aaron Newsome, colored man of Carthage, charged with false pretense, was discharged about six o'clock in the evening when they failed to reach an agreement.

Dinkens was arrested this summer with James Palmer of this city, and each are charged with the crime of robbing the depot. Palmer, it is understood, had confessed following his arrest, and he is to be arraigned later.

Some little trouble was experienced in obtaining a jury, and the following men were chosen about 11 o'clock: Horace Glidden, Elmore Gibson, D. L. Banta, George Krammes, Joe Pike, Frank Fore, Ben Jones, Leslie Miller, E. O. George, R. M. Aldridge, J. S. Stevens and Jesse Winkler.

There were many witnesses summoned by each side of the case, and it was doubtful as to whether the evidence would be completed today.

Prosecutor Ketchum in his opening statement to the jury stated that the state would show by its evidence that Dinkens and Palmer planned to enter the depot on the night of August 7, 1921, and he said that they waited near the depot until a south-bound freight passed in the night.

When the freight was passing, one of the men threw a brick through the window of the station, and the attorney said that the man's hand was cut by glass. The noise of the train offset the noise of falling glass.

The state's attorney stated that the men had planned to rob the safe, as Dinkens needed $100, but when they entered the station they found the safe to be open, and there was no money in it.

He said that the state would show further that the men then entered the freight station, and opened a large box of merchandise, consigned to a dealer at Knightstown, and that they took considerable quantities of the wearing apparel.

The attorney said that the evidence would show further that Palmer removed his share of the loot to his home in this city, and that Dinkens did not maintain any residence, and he could not take his away, and that he hid his share in a field south of the city.

Prosecutor Ketchum stated that some time later Dinkens returned here, and told Fred Clevenger, Jr., that he was welcome to the stuff if he would go out and get it, and that still later when Palmer was in jail on the charge, that Dinkens went to his home and communicated with his wife about the stolen goods that had been stored in the attic at her home.

The defendant dressed up in some of the men's apparel, according to the attorney, and the rest was burned. The detectives of the railroad traced the robbery this summer to the two men, according to the affidavit.

The Fred Clevenger mentioned as receiving the stolen goods, is now serving a sentence at the state reformatory, and he was brought here today to testify on behalf of the state, and was expected to collaborate the facts as set out by the prosecutor in his statement.

MRS. GRAY'S FUNERAL

Funeral services for Mrs. Bessie Gray, wife of Carey Gray, who died at her home in Acton Saturday night, will be held at the late residence Wednesday morning at ten o'clock and the remains will be brought here for short services at East Hill chapel in the afternoon at two o'clock. Burial will take place in East Hill.

RULING AFFECTS GROCERS

Pharmacy Board Holds They Can Not Sell Aspirin

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 9.—The state board of pharmacy today ruled that retail grocers in the state can not legally sell aspirin and similar products, contending that the sale of such is illegal, except when made through licensed pharmacies.

The matter came up on petition of the Indiana Wholesale Grocers' Association, whose representatives met with the board today.

The grocers contend aspirin is a patent medicine and that it may be sold in any place of business. The board argued aspirin is a drug and that the sale of it comes under the powers of the board, according to a state statute.

CHILDREN ARE NOT COUNTED

More than 2,500 persons, not counting children under 12 years of age, passed through the cars of the Service-Progress Special of the New York Central Lines, which stopped here Monday afternoon from one to five o'clock, and all of those who visited the train expressed wonder at the exhibition and equipment on display, which showed the evolution of the railroad from its infancy.

An indicator kept count of the people as they streamed through the coaches, and it is estimated that there were at least 1,000 people on the outside viewing the train and exhibit, who did not venture in the line leading to the coaches. The attendance here was a disappointment as those in charge expected 5,000 to see the exhibit.

The mark of 550,000 people was reached on the tour, as the train has been making several states since early in June, and before the route is completed, it is expected that 2,000,000 people will visit it.

The display was wonderful, and was well worth the visit of anyone, and when time came for the train to leave, there were hundreds of people turned away, many not having an opportunity of passing through the coaches.

The train was drawn by the giant locomotive, No. 8,000, the largest freight engine in service on the New York Central, and old No. 999, the engine which pulled the Empire State Express to a record of 112.5 miles an hour. The public was invited to climb up in the cabs of the engines and all of the mechanism was explained. It was a great day for the kiddies, many of whom had their first opportunity of getting inside a locomotive. The great size of No. 8,000 can be seen from the fact that it consumed six tons of coal every hour while in operation. It is automatically fired.

One of the most interesting parts of the exhibit is the models of Ernest Warther, showing locomotive development from the beginning to the present time. The models are hand-carved. The Warther models were made from the blue prints of the original engines and the exhibit is valued at $100,000.

THE GREAT GOLD DISCOVERY

Official Word From Washington Will Release-Crowded Conditions in City Mail Service

TREADWAY WILL QUALIFY

The Rushville postoffice will add a new city carrier to its present force of men, according to official word received from Washington. Compliance with the request for the additional carrier comes after several years waiting, during which time many complaints of delayed mail delivery has been received from all sections of the city.

Griffin Treadway will become the new letter carrier after having acted for several years as a substitute carrier and regularly employed as the parcel post carrier. It will mean that an examination for a carrier will be held soon to name a successor for the parcel post carrier or the vacancy will be filled by appointing some one from the waiting list.

Several months ago a petition was presented to the postoffice here by persons affected by the late delivery of mail, and an inspector from Washington investigated the conditions here, and altered some of the routes, but did not benefit the delivery. The territory was too great for four carriers to cover twice a day, and with the addition of the fifth carrier, it will mean that all routes will be changed, and those who have waited until as late as one o'clock in the afternoon for their morning mail, will probably be the most benefitted under the new arrangements. No time has been given for the proposed change.

ANOTHER STEP TO END RUHR DEADLOCK

Germany Inquires Whether France And England Were Prepared To Negotiate On Reparations

DELAYS REPLY TO BUSINESS

(By United Press) Berlin, Oct. 9.—The German government today took another step toward ending the Ruhr deadlock and resuming reparations payment.

Through its ambassadors at Paris and London, the Stresemann government inquired whether France and England were prepared to negotiate regarding necessary details, it was learned reliably this afternoon.

Until the replies are received the government proposes to withhold its answer to a so-called industrial ultimatum delivered today by big business interests, headed by Hugo Stinnes.

Chancellor Stresemann has won the required confidence of the Reichstag in his new-patch-work ministry, despite a general feeling it cannot long endure.

By a two thirds vote, the Reichstag passed a resolution of confidence in the Stresemann government late last night. The Dutch nationalists, the Communists and the Bavarian Folks-party (not to be confused with the folks party of Germany) voted against the chancellor.

At the time when Stresemann was receiving the support of the legislators, Hugo Stinnes, stung by charges of Bernhard in the Vossische Zeitung that the industrialist was trying to establish a dictatorship by driving prices sky-high, published in the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung a statement under his own name, denying this.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS UNABLE TO ASSIST

SUPT. SCHOLL IN THEIR PLACE

J. H. Scholl, superintendent of the Rushville public schools, is assisting school officials of the state assigned to Rush county this week to conduct tests in elementary subjects, in the township schools, as a part of the program to gather information in "control counties" to be compared with similar tests conducted in counties where special supervision is in effect this year, under the direction of the Rockefeller Foundation.

Albert Free, superintendent of the Owen county schools, and R. N. Tiry, superintendent of the Bloomington schools, two of the nine men assigned to this county, were unable to come and Supt. Scholl was requested to help. W. E. Wagoner, assistant state high school inspector, who is directing the tests in this county, also is helping in the actual carrying out of the plan. Supt. Free may be able to come here for the latter part of the work, but was unable to be present for the first half. Supt. Tiry has found it impossible to come at all.

Tests were held in Walker, Rushville and Noble townships today and Wednesday the schools of Posey, Union and Jackson townships will be visited. Ripley, Center and Washington townships will be the last group and they will be the scene of the tests Thursday.

FREIGHTER IS ON ROCKS

Kennicott Sends Radio Call From Near Vancouver Early Today

San Francisco, Oct. 9.—The Williams Line freighter Kennicott ran aground on the rocks off Fredericks Island near Vancouver, B. C., at 1:12 this morning, according to a radiogram from the vessel to the Radio Corporation of America here at the time of the accident.

Communication was lost with the vessel at 1:30.

The message announcing her distress was relayed here from the vessel by stations at Ketchikan, Alaska, and Prince Rupert, B. C., which reported that the steamship "Queen" was the nearest vessel to the scene and had been requested to proceed at once to the Kennicott's assistance.

An informal jollification over the election of Samuel L. Trabue of this city as grand outer guard at the Knights of Pythias grand lodge in Indianapolis last week, will be held next Monday evening at the K. of P. lodge rooms, it was decided Monday evening at the regular meeting of the lodge.

A committee was appointed and a definite program will be worked out. It is expected that several grand officers and representatives of lodges in neighboring cities will be invited. The Rushville man was elected by acclamation and members of the local lodge feel that it was a high compliment for him and the lodge.

HUGHES PLAN HAS LLOYD GEORGE O.K.

IN INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

One Time Pilot of England's Government Reminds Countrymen He is Still in the Running

With Lloyd George, Montreal, Oct. 9.—Lloyd George is keeping his ear into the international waters, despite the fact that he no longer is steering the British ship of state.

Having in mind the possibility that Stresemann may fall in a week or two and that his fall might conceivably be followed by the fall of the British ministry among other things, Lloyd George reminds his countrymen that he is ready at hand if need arises.

This is the construction some of his political friends put on the statement he issued here relating to the Hughes economic experts plan for settling the reparations question.

It was his first utterance on international problems except his usual statements. In effect Lloyd George urged the Hughes plan to determine Germany's capacity to pay, to begin earning it as the only sound and workable plan. France has stood in the way of the plan from the beginning. There was a sting for France, and a warning in Lloyd George's brief statement in which he pointed out that, since the Hughes plan was first made, Germany's ability to pay has been lessened. The intimation that further delay would lessen it still further was clear.

Lloyd said the Hughes plan is, in his opinion, the only plan that will settle the reparations tangle. Lord Curzon, the British foreign minister has been criticized on the ground that his foreign policy lacks definiteness.

If Lloyd George could stir up sentiment in the United States—no necessarily popular sentiment, but the sentiment of the administration—to the point where some American pressure might be brought on France to accept the Hughes plan in return for American co-operation, he would perhaps enhance his own political fortunes, it is pointed out here.

He and his party are to depart this afternoon for Ottawa for a brief stop. In the meantime the program for speeches on the Canadian tour is very much scrambled.

Lloyd George said he would not keep his program in Montreal but he went through every item of it. Now some of those with him expect he will make all the scheduled speeches, if he is not required to attend so many minor social and semi-public functions.

Lord Renfrew expected in Montreal about noon today on his way home from his ranching vacation probably will meet Lloyd George.

INJUNCTION SOUGHT

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 9.—Injunction against the Central Labor Union of Sullivan, Ind., four young women, formerly employees of Sullivan Telephone company and eleven other residents of Sullivan was asked in federal court today by the Sullivan Telephone Company. The complaint charged that the defendants conspired to prevent the proper operations of the company's business since the four girls were discharged.

ADVANTAGES OF CITY RECITED

OUTSTANDING THINGS HERE

Churches, Schools, Transportation Facilities, Citizenship And Beauty Of Residence Section

Turning from the critical to the optimistic side, the Rotary club today discussed "The Advantages of Rushville," after having devoted the meeting last week to "The Needs of Rushville." Five short talks were made setting forth the advantages to be found in Rushville, following the reading of answers to a questionnaire sent to members of the Rotary club asking for their ideas regarding the six most important attributes of the city that make it stand from other county seat cities.

I. L. Endres spoke first on "Transportation Facilities," pointing to the excellent advantages Rushville enjoyed insofar as freight shipments were concerned. He said that Rushville was probably better situated in this respect, than any city of its size, because of the four railroads and an interurban line. Mr. Endres declared that though none of them was a trunk line, they connected with main lines in such a way that shippers really received better service than if they were located on trunk lines. He asserted that Rushville was not so fortunate in passenger service and touched briefly on the motor bus as a means of transportation.

Eugene B. Butler, principal of the high school, discussed "Schools," basing his short talk on the premise that the Rushville schools have a good organization, good teachers, and a good school spirit. He pointed out that the basis of the organization on the six-year plan—the first six grades in one group and the junior and senior high school in the other group, was the most practical method of organizing schools and was so accepted by educators generally.

Based on comparison with other schools, Mr. Butler asserted that the teaching corps had been on a high plane and that the school spirit was exceptionally good, evidence of this fact being found in the desire of pupils to go to school and the willingness of the teachers to do their work.

Referring to some of the outstanding advantages of the schools, he spoke of the benefit derived from the physical training courses, under the direction of Albert Cotton, and the high standard of the penmanship. Mr. Butler asserted the Palmer system has been mastered in the Rushville schools and that a great improvement in writing was being shown. He also mentioned that the Rushville high school is commissioned and belongs to the North Central Association of High Schools, Colleges and Universities, which was even a greater recognition of its worth. Mr. Butler spoke of the value of the commercial course, which has become very popular, the enthusiasm of the pupils, which resulted in the annual and weekly newspaper, both of which have brought the school recognition.

"The churches may be considered as the leaves of the community breathing in from the upper air and taking in the things that are necessary for our lives," Dr. John M. Walker said in speaking on the "Churches." They send out atmosphere that is helpful just as leaves give out oxygen to sustain our lives."

Dr. Walker said that the churches of Rushville seat 3,500 people, which is unusual for a city of this size, and gave expression to his thankfulness that there are so many denominations represented in Rushville.

Dr. Walker asserted that he could very sincerely pay tribute to every pastor in Rushville because all are doing their work well.

"I don't believe we could say that we have any class churches in Rushville," he asserted, "because people of all conditions of life belong and attend all churches and that is as it should be, because we should all be united." (Continued on Page 6)

REMUS CASE TAKEN

Cincinnati Attorney Charged With Transporting Liquor in Auto in Which There Was a Pistol

RECALLS MORRISTOWN WRECK

Shelbyville, Ind., Oct. 9—Hearing was set aside Monday in the case of George Remus, Cincinnati attorney, charged in police court here with the transportation of liquor, as a substantial charge was entered against Remus in the Shelby circuit court. Remus furnished a cash bond of $1,000 for his release on the charge and arraignment will take place later.

The affidavit filed against Remus in the Shelby circuit court charges him with transporting liquor in an automobile in which there was a pistol. This places the case against Remus in the felony class. Remus made no comment on the case and left here immediately after he had made arrangements for the bond. His attorney, ex-Judge Alonzo Blair, represented Remus in the court proceedings.

Authorities who have been investigating the wreck of a large Marmon automobile near Morristown several weeks ago and the finding of a quantity of whisky in the car, report the finding of a 45 calibre revolver in the automobile. The automobile was owned by Mrs. Remus and articles of clothing in the machine bore marks that indicated they were owned by Remus.

At Mystic Again Today

That stout-hearted legion, the police, maligned and lampooned in many of the greatest cities in the country, at last had their inning at the Mystic Theatre yesterday where the thrilling police melodrama "In the Name of the Law" was revealed on the screen for the first time under the auspices of Mr. P. A. Powers and the Film Booking Offices of America, of which he is the managing director. The picture is also on view again today.

"In the Name of the Law" gives the policeman a square deal. It puts the guardian of our lives and liberty in the right light. And this for the first time in the history of the screen. "In the Name of the Law," in fact, shines like a mighty beacon of truth.

Big Scenes At Princess

Starting off the production of "The Dangerous Age" with a train and automobile race that took three days to film and found its conclusion in a spectacular wreck, John M. Stahl set a standard for big scenes for the production that was religiously carried out in the subsequent episodes.

set, said to be the largest ever constructed on a stage, came next and was followed by an extravagant scene in which several hundred fashionably attired men and girls took part, and an exciting race track scene, staged especially for the director.

The camera next ground out a beautiful and elaborate wedding scene, and then gave its attention to recording the important events transpiring in a remarkable floor of a Pasadena millionaire's home.

Other remarkable settings to be seen in the picture are a section of the Grand Central Terminal in New York, faithfully reproduced on the immense outdoor stage at the Mayer studios, and the interior of a United States mail car.

"The Dangerous Age," a First National attraction, began a two day engagement at the Princess Theatre Monday. It has an all-star cast, composed of Lewis S. Stone,

Ruth Clifford, Edith Roberts, Cleo Madison, Myrtle Stedman, Richard Tucker, Helen Lynch, James Morrison, Edward Burns and Lincoln Stedman. The story is by Frances Irene Reels and was prepared for the screen by J. G. Hawks and Bess Meredyth.

At It Again

News dispatches recently carried the information that officials of the American Bankers' Association had agreed to start a campaign in this country in favor of canceling wholly or in part the debts the allies owe to us.

Having failed in every other such undertaking, the advocates of debt cancellation now seek to influence the general public through the medium of the bankers of the United States.

Have you ever heard of a banker, or of any other business man, deliberately canceling a just debt an individual owed to him? Necessary extension of credit, perhaps. But cancellation, never.

Of course, the eleven billions of allied debts the officials of the American Bankers' Association would have us cancel did not come from the private fortunes of the said officials. It came from the pockets of the people, the people who pay taxes, and many an American bought government bonds "until it hurt" in order that the eleven billions might be loaned to the allied governments.

It makes a difference who pays the freight.

The officials of the association may be able to influence the bankers of the United States, but we doubt it.

The great majority of American bankers are generously supplied with brains. The interests of the people of the United States are of more vital concern to them than are the desires of certain foreign governments who are crazy to slide out of paying their just debts.

This latest scheme bears the earmarks of being just another piece of foreign propaganda that will fall flat—as all such have done.

Weather Superstitions

If you were brought up in the country you must have heard that when the moon was full the weather was sure to be cold, and that it was quite providential that this was so, since travelers in the night in the severest of winter weather would have the advantage of the extra light. But the weather wiseacres have been telling us for years there was nothing in this any more than in the theory that the winters were growing warmer.

Nevertheless, whenever it happens to be cold at the full moon people think of this old saying. But did you think of it the other night with the moon full and clear, and the weather nearly as sultry as summer?

Then there is the line storm. From time immemorial people have associated any storm that came within 5 days on either side of September 21

as due to the passing of the sun across the equator on its southward journey; but we have had this year no storm of any kind. The weather charts have always told us that the line storm was a myth. This year suggests that they might be right.

Money Won't Buy Loyalty

Loyalty, vigilance, alertness and service are four elements which every business man would like to believe are inherent in all of his employees.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has abundant evidence to show that such qualities are common to all but a negligible portion of its employees.

This evidence comes in the form of unsolicited letters. As an example we quote one received from Mr. Wm. E. Small, of Fargo, North Dakota, written under date of September 11, in which he says:

"I wish to acknowledge the courtesy of your station attendant, Mr. Grassell, of Grafton. I am used to receiving the best treatment at the hands of your Fargo Service Station men but this young man has the idea of service and accommodation raised to the nth power.

"The soil around Grafton is about the stiniest, griciest, blackest, and most all-round detestable stuff in the world to get smeared with but, notwithstanding this and notwithstanding the fact that I was a total stranger to him and not one of his regular customers, when I drove into your station at Grafton after an unusually heavy down-pour of rain last week your agent at that point insisted that I remain in my car while he attached the chains over wheels and under fenders literally plastered with Grafton gumbo. When informed that I intended driving through to Grand Forks he not only put on the chains but wired them on and made an expert job of it. When he had finished he was covered from head to foot with mud and slime but refused absolutely to accept a cent for the service rendered.

"I know of no other way to square accounts than to report the matter to headquarters. As I drove down to Grand Forks through a sea of mud but clean and comfortable I swore eternal gratitude to my friends, the Standard Oil Company, for all time to come. You are giving us real service up here in the Red River Valley and I, for one, appreciate it."

It was loyalty to the Company's ideals of service that caused this service station attendant to go far out of his way to render Mr. Small an extraordinary degree of service in an extraordinary situation—and he made another friend for the Company.

Such loyalty cannot be bought—it must be earned.

Skillful management is one thing—shrewd buying is another—scientific manufacturing processes constitute still another—but the loyalty—the spirit—the morale—of the 27,000 employees is what has made the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) great—in size—in achievements—and in service—to the thirty million people of the Middle West.

EVENTS—WRESTLINGHUGGINS DUCKS
THE SPOTLIGHTWinning of Pennant For Third Time
So Easily Defracts Credit That
Yank Manager Deserves

PLAYED IMPORTANT PART

Task Was to Prevent Team From Doing Worst Through Over-Confidence And Taking Things Easy

By HENRY L. FARRELL

New York, Oct. 9.—Winning the third straight American League pennant for New York proved such an easy job for the Yankees that it rather detracted, or perhaps made less positive, the credit that little Miller Huggins deserves for his success in handling the team.

The Yanks were almost a cinch for the pennant from the beginning of the season. Critics were almost unanimous in picking the champions of 1921 and 1922 to repeat and they more than lived up to expectations and predictions.

Huggins had an important part in guiding the team through a successful season. His task was not so much to get the best out of his material as it was to prevent them from doing their worst through over-confidence and an inclination to take things easy.

The little manager of the club fortified with a wonderful pitching staff and he displayed some skill in handling his staff so that they remained in form through the entire season.

His work has been under cover and the fans who base their judgment upon superficial evidence find nothing much in the victory of the Yanks that could be construed as a vindication of a capable manager who has never appealed to New Yorkers.

Regardless of the fact that it is something of a feat to win three pennants in succession even with a star team, Huggins gets little credit and his reward is the commend that they should have had the pennant cinched in August and that any manager could win with that kind of a team.

Huggins has never been popular in New York because he did not care enough to set aside his natural inclination to avoid the limelight. Of a retiring disposition off the field, modest and unassuming and, at the same time, impervious to unjust criticism, Huggins has gone quietly about his business and in building a three-time pennant winner out of a lot of uniform-filers he has really accomplished something.

It is true that Huggins had almost countless money behind him and the privilege of buying where and when he saw fit, but all the money in the mint would not have enabled him to produce a pennant-winning combination if he did not have good judgment enough to know what players were worth buying for the club.

Huggins has never made a bad buy and his shrewdness was shown last winter when he arranged a trade with the Boston Red Sox in which he secured Herb Pennock, the veteran southpaw pitcher.

He was severely criticized for sending George Murray, a promising young pitcher, and Norman McMillan, a fine young infielder to Boston in the deal for a pitcher that was voted generally to be through. But his judgment was vindicated when Pennock developed into one of the best pitchers of the season and the youngster sent to Boston fizzled.

Someone deserves great credit for the harmony that was established on the Yankee team this season. New spirit was instilled into the players, who were divided in rival factions last year, and they played ball together all season.

Although he has not claimed any credit for it, Huggins no doubt had much to do with the transformation of the team, although it is certain that he would disclaim all credit if anyone should be kind enough to praise him for it.

Critics scoff at the crude style of baseball played by the Yanks, in which the sock prevails over the scientific and they blame Huggins for the dumb game that the club displayed in the last world's series with the Giants.

There is no doubt that the Yanks were stupid and played like saps against the Giants. McGraw, as a manager was made to look like a champion against a second rate team when the Yanks were led into traps as old as the game itself, but it must be remembered that McGraw is the smartest manager of all time and that he has material which is mental.

Giants Favorites for Series

(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Oct. 9.—Confidence being a large and prominent part of any battle, the New York Giants should have the advantage in mental fettle over the Yankees, when they go into their third battle of successive years for the baseball championship.

After outfighting the Yankees in 1921 and routing them in 1922, it is but natural that the National League champions should go into the 1923 fight feeling that they can win. It follows also that the Yankees could not help but have a slight doubt about their chances after they had lost two years running to a team that was unanimously regarded as being inferior to the American League pennant winners.

It is this spirit of confidence, which should sway the Giants, and the established ability of McGraw's team to do its very best when the situation is worst that makes the National Leaguers the favorite in the betting.

Yankee supporters, if there is such a thing as partisan feeling in New York, believe that the chances of the team rest entirely upon the robust form of Babe Ruth.

It has become an accepted axiom that "as Ruth goes, so go the Yanks" and on this theory, which was proved beyond all doubt, during the last season, if the swat king shatters the spell that John McGraw has cast over him for two years, the Yanks ought to win.

Star pitching, as it is represented in the Yankee staff, will impose plenty of trouble upon the Giant batters, but it will be nothing compared to the handicap McGraw's team will have to carry if Ruth goes on a batting rampage.

It is impossible to look in the glass and see a movie of what the Babe is going to make of the chance to redeem himself, but it is almost a safe bet that the battering ram of the Yankees will not be the chief goat of the series, even if he is not the champion hero.

Ruth's hitting in the closing days of the season will be a most important factor in getting him ready for the series. It will be remembered that Ruth came back home with the Yankees after their last western trip leading the league in batting and immediately fell into a slump. He got the idea that he couldn't hit in the new Yankee Stadium, and ideas of that kind impose a fatal mental hazard on a ball player. Ruth, however, apparently worked himself out of that mental bunker and started hitting.

Ruth has always maintained that he liked the Polo Grounds better than any park on the circuit, when the American League was sharing the home of the Giants and part of the series will be played there.

He ought to hit at least normally under conditions that are as near to ideal as possible and his normal gait this season has been around .400. Giant pitchers in 1921 and 1922 had to fool only a Babe who was trying to murder the ball and who wasn't in shape to connect with a blimp. But the Babe of 1923 is a great batter as well as the king slugger and he is in shape.

With the Giants forced to play part of the series on a strange field, while the Yankees are at home in both grounds, the National League champions will also face another handicap. It may amount to nothing and again it may turn out to be a most important factor.

The Yankee stadium is hard to play in. Irish Meusel and "Pep" Young, the Giant left and right-fielders, will have almost twice the territory to cover that they protect in the Polo Grounds and strange lighting conditions may bother the batters. American League players claim the Yankee home is the hardest field to play in the big leagues and it is only natural that the Giants might have some difficulty in adjusting themselves.

Just before the series opened last fall, the New York correspondent of a Japanese paper cabled the following expert prognostication on the series to his paper:

"All depends on how the Yankee

batters bat and Giant pitchers pitch."

The same abstract dope might be applied this year, although it might be amended to predict that the series will depend upon how the Yankee batters bat and how the Yankee pitchers pitch.

Disregarding the proof placed at hand in 1921 and 1922 that great pitching is not an insurmountable obstacle for a good ball club to overcome, it still remains difficult to reason that the Giants can get by Sam Jones, Herb Pennock, Waite Hoyt, Joe Bush and Bob Shawkey just because they did last year and the year previous.

With a ball club that is more mentally alert, a team that is actuated by better spirit and a manager who has been able to establish harmony where discord prevailed before, it is not logical that the Yankees should be out-thought and out-played again just because they were last fall and the fall before.

With Babe Ruth playing the greatest game of his life on the offense and the defense and with the whole Yankee team set to vindicate themselves, just as the Babe wants to redeem himself, it is not reasonable to take evidence from the past to draw the conclusion that once and twice wrong, the Yanks always will be wrong.

Because the Yanks have nothing better than their best which failed in two previous fights against the Giants it is not safe to depend upon the moral reformation of the team and psychology to get that the series will not result just as it did in the two previous cases.

On form and dope, the Giants ought to win the championship again. The experts, who strung along with the Yanks for two years, have all swung over to the champions and are picking the Giants.

The Giants, it is sure, have many reasons and causes why they should win, but we do not believe they will.

NEW YORK HAS MONOPOLY ON BASE BALL CLASSIC

New York, Oct. 9.—Maintaining what has become almost a monopoly on the world's series, New York again will have a private fight for the championship of the baseball world when the Giants and the Yankees meet for the third successive year to decide the championship.

It is nothing new for one team to win three pennants in a row. The National League has seven such triple winners on record—Chicago in 1880, 1881 and 1882; Boston in 1891, 1892, and 1893; Baltimore in 1894, 1895 and 1896; Pittsburgh in 1901, 1902, and 1903; Chicago in 1906, 1907 and 1908 and New York in 1911, 1912 and 1913 and again ten years later in 1921, 1922 and 1923.

The feat of the Yankees in winning three pennants in a row is more of a novelty in the younger American League, however, as the Detroit Tigers, who won the championship in 1907, 1908 and 1909, were the only club to do it in the past.

Never before, however, have the same two pennant winners engaged in the world's series three times in succession. The best previous mark was established in 1907 and 1908, when the Chicago Cubs and the Detroit Tigers met in the series. The only case in which two teams from the same city took part in the series was in 1906 when the Cubs and the White Sox had a private series in Chicago.

In winning the National League pennant with the Giants Manager John J. McGraw established a new record also by finishing in first place for the ninth time. No other manager can approach this wonderful achievement and it is very doubtful if it ever will be equalled.

The victory of the Yankees in the American League placed Miller Huggins in a tie with Hughie Jennings, who won three successive pennants with the Detroit Tigers, but it is just half what Connie Mack piled up in the days when the Philadelphia Athletics were in their glory.

World's Biggest Ball
Yards for The Series

New York, Oct. 9.—Played in two new parks, the largest baseball grounds in the world, the championship series between the New York Giants and the New York Yankees is almost sure to establish new attendance records for one or two games, if not for the entire series.

The new Yankee stadium, built at 161st Street and River Avenue, in the Bronx, cost more than $2,000,000 and it has seating space of 70,000 fans. It was filled only once this season, on the opening day, but its capacity was almost reached for two other Sunday games in mid-season.

The Polo Grounds was remodeled last winter at a cost of over half a million dollars and it is the finest park in the National League. The infield is most completely surrounded with a double-deck grandstand that gives the park a seating capacity of 56,000. There is only a small bleacher section in center field that seats about 7,000.

The Giants and the Yanks set the present attendance record when they drew 369,976 fans to the world's series in 1921, when eight games were played. Owing to the short series last fall, the attendance did not approach the preceding year's mark.

Starting later than usual, the series may be bothered with bad weather this year and the general slump in interest may cause the attendance to decrease. It is considered almost certain, however, that the two parks will be filled to capacity for the first two or three games and new marks are practically sure to be established.

FIGHT RESULTS

Omaha.—Billy Welsh, English welter and Morris Schaller fought a ten round draw.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 9.—After the crowd had jeered and complained that they were looking at a "stall" the 12-round, no-decision fight here last night between Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, outside of New York and Jimmy Jones, champion in New York was stopped before the tenth round and declared "no contest."

New Orleans, La., Oct. 9.—The scheduled 15-round bout between Bob Martin, former champion of the A. E. P., and Martin Burke, New Orleans, heavyweight promoted by Frank Oret, was stopped in the seventh round last night because of Martin's poor physical condition.

World Series Heroes

1910—Eddie Collins, Athletics, second baseman, and Jack Coombs, Athletics' pitcher.

1911—Frank Baker, Athletics' third baseman, whose home runs defeated the Giants.

1912—Tris Speaker, Red Sox center fielder, by his hitting, and Harry Hooper, Red Sox right fielder, by his fielding, featured the victories over the Giants.

1913—Baker, by his hitting, and Chief Bender and Eddie Plank, Athletics' pitchers, defeated the Giants.

1914—Hank Gowdy, Braves' catcher, batted his team to victory over the Athletics. Dick Rudolph was the star pitcher of the Braves.

1915—Duffy Lewis, Harry Hooper and Tris Speaker, the Red Sox outfield, defeated the Phillies by their batting and fielding.

1916—Larry Gardner, Red Sox third baseman, was chiefly instrumental in defeating the Dodgers by his batting.

1917—Eddie Cicotte and Urban Fieber, White Sox pitchers, who won the games from the Giants by their twirling.

1918—George Whiteman, veteran of the minor leagues, who played left field for the Red Sox and was the chief factor in defeating the Cubs by his batting and fielding.

1919—Walter Ruether, Red pitcher, by his batting, and Eddie Roush, Red center fielder by his fielding, were the big factors in most of the defeats of the White Sox. Dickie Kerr, White Sox youngster, pitched his team to two of its three victories.

1920—Elmer Smith, Cleveland right fielder, hit a home run with the bases full, the first time in world's series history. Bill Wambach, Cleveland second baseman, completed a triple play unassisted. Jim Bagby, Cleveland pitcher, hit a homer with two on. All happened in the fifth game which Cleveland won from Brooklyn 8 to 1.

1921—Jesse Barnes, regarded as the "ball bearer" of the Giants' pitching staff, relieved Toney twice after he had been knocked out of the box and won both games. Ross Young, Giant's outfielder, hit a triple and a double in the seventh inning of the third game. Frank Frisch, Giant's third baseman, scored two runs in the same inning. Carl Mays, Yankee pitcher, pitched the first fourth and seventh games without giving a base on balls. Mike McNally and Bob Meusel, of the Yanks, stole home.

1922—Jack Scott, released unconditionally by the Cincinnati Reds for having an incurable arm and picked up by McGraw only when he pleaded that he had to have a job to keep his family, turned the big hero of the series when he let the Yanks down with four hits in the third game and won for the Giants by a score of 3 to 0. Babe Ruth was not one of the heroes and, on the other hand, was a terrible bust. In seventeen trips to the plate he got only two singles and a double for the grand average of .118.

Quantities of tickets have fallen into the hands of scalpers who are asking double the face value. Betting continues brisk with the Yanks still prevailing as slight favorites over the Giants. John McGraw, manager of the world's champions, thinks it is a good omen for his club.

"Twice the Yanks have been the favorites in the series and twice they didn't win," he said. Huggins is not pleased with the honor of being the favorite.

The "inferiority complex" which is being advanced as one of the reasons why the Yanks will have a hard time beating the Giants, is not apparent in the actions of the American League champions. They are all pepped up and they show their confidence that they will win.

"They can't beat us three in a row," Babe said today and the other members of the team feel the same way. Ruth must know that the dope places upon his shoulders the entire burden of the Yankees but he does not show it. If the theory is sound that "as Ruth goes, so goeth the Yanks," the Babe is at least trying to show his teammates he is going very large.

The Yankees feel sure that Arthur Nehf, the steady southpaw of the Giants will pitch the first game and this hunch has caused Miller Huggins to take a second guess on his pitching selection.

Several days ago "Hug" said he would start Jones if the weather was clear, and that Joe Bush would get the call if the day should be cloudy.

Huggins said today that he had changed his mind and that he would not be sure until tomorrow. It was thought that the leader of the Yanks might throw Herb Pennock, his southpaw ace in the opener. The Giants have never "looked at" Pennock and they consider him more seriously than any of the other Yank pitchers.

Most of the baseball family, minor and major league managers, players, scouts and writers had gathered today. Commissioner Landis will preside at a meeting of the major league club owners today to go through the annual draft.

FAIR WEATHER
SIGN IS OUT

Tickets Are About Gone. Teams Are Ready And Fans Are Waiting For "Play Ball"

THE BABE RARIN' TO GO

Bob Meusel And Mike McNally Are Fit, But It Is Doubtful Whether Pipp Will Start

(Written for United Press)

New York, Oct. 9.—One more lap around the clock and the growled—"let's go" of the umpires are all that remain on the program to get the third annual battle between the Giants and the Yankees for the world's baseball championship underway.

Everything else is ready. Fair weather is in promise, tickets are about gone; the teams are ready and the fans are waiting to go.

Miller Huggins, the little manager of the American League champions, took unto himself a rather pleasant mood today. It seems that he found a decrease when he called the roll of crimples.

Babe Ruth is ready and rarin' to go. Bob Meusel has sound legs under him again, and Mike McNally has separated from a stitch in the side. Wally Pipp is still rather doubtful but Huggins thinks he will be able to start the first game.

"What if the Giants start laying them down in front of him?" Huggins was asked about Pipp and his game ankle.

"We'll have to do something when they start that," he replied.

Pep Young is still sniffing with a cold and John Soupbone Scott has a kink in his arm but otherwise the National League champions are ready for the word.

Yankee business managers announced that the reserved seats were at once but that 36,000 unreserved seats would be available tomorrow. The Giants have sold all their reserved seats.

Great quantities of tickets have fallen into the hands of scalpers who are asking double the face value.

Dr. Walker asked that it be remembered that churches are made up of human beings and therefore are not faultless. He developed the thought, in closing, that the church, as the lense, gathers light for its members as best it can.

L. L. Allen, speaking on "The Residential District," referred to the beauty of Rushville homes and lawns, the generally good appearance of the whole city, regardless of any section, and recited instances of visitors who had marked the unusually attractive features of the city. He recalled that many times Rushville had been remembered long after persons living here had been forgotten.

In speaking of cases where people contemplated moving here, Mr. Allen spoke of the need of more desirable rental property.

Rushville is primarily a city of comfortable homes, he concluded, and there is daily manifested a home pride which brings town pride.

Warder Wyatt spoke briefly on "Citizenship", saying that "If there is anything that speaks for itself, it is our citizenship." He pointed out that all of the things enumerated as advantages of Rushville make for better citizenship, and brought out the thought that Rushville citizenship owes something to the citizenship of the county. He also said Rushville citizenship was to be commended for not losing sight of the ones to follow.

W. E. Waggoner of Indianapolis, assistant state high school inspector and former member of the Rushville club, and Mr. Mulligan of Cleveland, were guests today.

The suggestions on "The Advantages of Rushville" were compiled as follows in the order of their popularity among members of the Rotary club, as follows:

and then submitted to the national administration.

The scheme is understood to be along the lines of that outlined by the United States department of agriculture which included formation of a government corporation to purchase all surplus wheat for export and act as agents in selling the grain abroad. Leaders in the farm congress believe this plan would immediately place wheat upon a higher price level and would not furnish merely temporary relief but could be continued over a long period if necessary.

Henry C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture is enroute to Kansas City to discuss the farm situation with the delegates to the congress and help frame a positive and aggressive program of relief.

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

TON AND A HALF LITTER IN COUNTY

Chester Meal of This County Establishes a Record for Hoosier Farmers With His Hogs

LITTER WEIGHED 3210 POUNDS

Local Farmers Saved And Raised All
13 And in 93 Day Period They
Weighed 1,012 Pounds

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 9.—A ton and a half litter with a two hundred pound hog to spare, is the new state record for a litter in the Hoosier Ton Litter Club, according to records at Purdue University.

To Chester A. Meal of Rush county, goes the honor of producing this litter. Thirteen pigs were farrowed in the litter and all were raised. At 90 days the litter weighed 1012 pounds; at six months, 3210 pounds. Meal will get one of the gold medals offered by the Indiana Livestock Breeders' Association under whose auspices the contest is conducted.

"My litter was sired by Revelation 24, a senior yearling that stood third in his class in the Poland China show at the Indiana State Fair this year," said Mr. Meal. "This hog weighs 950 pounds."

"The litter is out of Lady Baster, a purebred Poland China weighing 650 pounds, in full flesh. She has produced two litters. The first time she farrowed 11 pigs and raised nine to weaning. The second was her ton and a half litter."

After mating last fall Mr. Meal turned Lady Baster into a corn and soybean field that had been hogged off, with the rest of the 30 sows on the farm. Rye had been sown in the field and there was plenty of late fall and winter pasture. She ran in this field during the most of the time she carried her litter.

A few days before farrowing she was put in a small lot with an individual house for shelter. The house was cleaned and disinfected before she was put in.

"I gave the sow nothing but water the first 24 hours after the pigs came," quoting Mr. Meal again. "Then I gave her a half ear of corn as the first feed. The corn was gradually increased. Several days after farrowing I began feeding a small amount of slop, made of rolled oats, water and semi-solid buttermilk. Slop as well as corn was gradually increased as the pigs got larger."

"The litter was fed rolled oats in a creep as soon as the pigs would eat. Later on I made a slop of

Purdue Course is Planned to Meet
Needs of Farm or Commercial
Poultry Raisers

TO DISCUSS MANY SUBJECTS

The Fifth Annual Poultry Short Course at Purdue University will be held November 12 to 24, 1923.

This course is planned to meet the needs of farm or commercial poultry raisers who desire to increase the size of their plant or better organize their poultry business. The subjects of housing, breeding, feeding, marketing, incubation, brooding and diseases will be fully discussed in class room work. Actual practice in judging birds, operating incubators and brooders of different types is given during the course.

The Purdue poultry plant has excellent equipment to give the practical and theoretical answer to many poultry problems. Its flocks total 1500 hens, with ten different breeds of chickens reared each year. The incubator cellar contains between 15 and 20 different makes of incubators ranging in size from 50 to 4800 egg capacity. The brooding equipment consists of eight to ten different types of brooders.

Trap nest records, experimental results, high and low egg producing stock will be used for study in classroom and laboratory work.

For complete information relative to the course, address Poultry Department, Purdue University.

MORE THAN HALF FINISHED

Wheat Sowing in County is Aided by
Good Weather

Rush county wheat sowing is more than half finished, it is estimated, because weather conditions during the past ten days have been such that farmers were not hindered in the least with the work.

The wheat crop in this county will be much shorter than customary next year, it is indicated, on account of many farmers being unable to sow grain in corn fields, due to the corn being down so bad. Several heavy wind storms in September blew the corn down. A number of farmers, however, went ahead with their regular crop rotation and sowed in the corn, regardless of the damage, on the theory that they could not afford to sacrifice their rotation plans.

POULTRY MEETING AT PURDUE OCT. 17

Farmers And Raisers of Poultry in
The State Are Urged to Attend
Big Two Day Round-up

IS AN EDUCATIONAL AFFAIR

All Lines of The Work Will Be Tak-

ease Control A Topic

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 9.—Poultrymen of Indiana should mark down October 17 and 18, Wednesday and Thursday, as the time of the big annual poultry round-up at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., according to the announcements recently issued by the Indiana State Poultry Association. This meeting, while an association affair, is an educational meeting to which all Hoosier poultry raisers are invited.

The program will open at 10:00 A. M. October 17 with a laboratory on judging hens for egg production. This work will be given by Prof. A. G. Philips, using trap-nested hens from the Purdue poultry farm. It will be more than a culling demonstration, as egg production of pullets and breeding qualities of males will be considered.

In the afternoon L. P. Doyle of the Purdue Veterinary Department will demonstrate the methods of making the tests for Bacillary White Diarrhoea of chicks. This test was used on many flocks over the state last year, and results will be reported by those who have actually tried it out.

The feature of the first night meeting will be the Baby Chick Supper-Conference, with Harry R. Lewis president of the International Baby Chick Association, and W. J. Buss, former chief of poultry at the Ohio Experiment Station, as speakers of the evening. It is expected that practically every large hatchery in Indiana will have a representative at this conference.

The program for the second day covers many lines of work. Professor Phillips of Purdue and Frank Platt of Chicago will continue the production judging laboratory. C. W. Carriek of Purdue will tell of the experimental work in feeding vitamins to chicks—new work in a new

Agriculture in Schools Made More Practicable

Agriculture in the rural schools will be taught in a slightly different manner in Elkhart County this year than in the past. Through the co-operation of the county school superintendent, an agricultural outline has been made by County Agent C. A. Jackson, for the teachers of the rural schools to follow. This will deal with farm crops while next year it is planned to have them deal with animals. In place of studying the subject from books, the agricultural students will study more from actual doing and seeing. The course is meant to deal with phases of agriculture which are adapted to Elkhart County in the most practicable way. Bulletins will be furnished and help given through the County Agent's office, while the outline will be taken up in detail at the County Teachers' Institute.

FALL BEST TIME TO FRESHEN COWS

Fall Freshening Has Many Advantages And Should be Practiced by

Cows Freshened in Fall Produce 84
Pounds More Milk or 32 Pounds
More Fat Than Those in Spring

By G. A. WILLIAMS
(Dairy Department, Purdue University)

Many dairy cows will freshen in Indiana during the next few weeks. Fall freshening has many advantages and should be practiced by dairymen more generally than it is. Hot weather, poor pastures and flies always reduce the milk flow during the summer months. Cows nearing the end of their lactation or those that are dry are not so seriously effected by these conditions as animals that have been in milk only a few months. Again, after threshing and silo-filling dairymen are not so busy and can give more care and attention to the fresh cow and her calf.

The time of freshening exerts considerable influence on production. The United States Department of Agriculture publishes the following dates compiled from a study of 10,870 Cow Testing Association records.

Fall	6689	268
Winter	6439	258
Summer	5941	236
Spring	5842	236

It will be seen that the cows freshening in the fall produced 847 pounds more milk or 32 pounds more fat than those freshening in the spring. Taking the price of butterfat at 40 cents per pound, this would mean that the first group have an income of $12.80 per cow more than the spring group. Some additional feed would be required but it would not equal the difference in receipts. Prices are better during winter months and there is less danger of producing a surplus of milk during the winter season. Much of the so-called over production could be avoided if many of those cows that freshen in the spring, milk for a few months during the grass season and are poorly fed during the winter, could be disposed of. Undoubtedly many of these should be consigned to the shambles immediately but there are some that would make a fair profit over feed cost if given a chance.

Every cow should be dry at least six weeks before freshening. It is not uncommon to hear a dairymen say "You simply cannot get that cow dry. She milks right up to calving."

LOCAL AGENT AT PURDUE MEETING

Donald Ball is Attending Annual Conference of Agricultural Extension Workers This Week

Farm Home Conference is New Feature And The Usual Short
Course Sessions Will be Held

County Agent D. D. Ball of this city is at Lafayette this week attending the 29th annual conference of agricultural extension workers at Purdue University, which got under way Monday.

The sessions will continue through next Friday, merging the last two days into a Farm Home conference. County agricultural agents, farmers' institute speakers, extension specialists working out from Purdue and other identified with extension work are expected to attend, about 200 in all. Pertinent farm and home topics will be discussed by state and national leaders.

The Farm Home conference is a new feature and it is hoped to work out a definite program for the improvement of the Indiana farm homes. Director G. L. Christie of the Experiment Station sounded the keynote of the conference in the opening address Monday afternoon. Dean J. H. Skinner spoke at night on Agricultural Leadership and what it can do in various communities over the state.

Tuesday and Wednesday will be given over to an intensive short course for those here at the conference, the latter day being devoted largely to discussions on marketing of farm products, with officials of the Indiana and American Farm Bureau as the speakers.

The next two days will be devoted to a discussion of the problems of Indiana Farm Home with speakers of wide repute scheduled for addresses. These speakers include such men as C. J. Galpin of the Department of Agriculture; Dr. Eben Mumford of Michigan Agricultural College; President E. C. Elliott of Purdue, and widely known women workers, including Dr. Louise Stanley, in charge of the home economics division of the Department of Agriculture, Mrs. Virginia C. Meredith of Lafayette, dean of women agricultural extension workers in Indiana; Mrs. Charles W. Sewell, Otterbein; Miss Grace Frysinger from Washington, D. C. and others.

Several organizations of the state will co-operate with the University in formulating a Farm Home program, the list including the Indiana Farm Bureau, Federation of Women's Clubs, Parent Teachers' Association.

The value of feeding to poultry a mash containing an animal protein such as tankage or meat scraps is shown in a report made on two Delaware County farms by County Agent A. L. Hodgson. The report follows:

Mrs. Ethel Huff, who has been keeping records in the County Egg Record work since March, and who has Single Comb White Leghorn hens, reports the following: Record for last week of June showed 35 eggs per day on a flock of 79 hens. On July 7 or 8, these hens ate the last of a mash feed which she had been keeping before them. In a week the production had dropped to one and two eggs per day the mash feed was resumed within a week, with a result that on July 22 the yield went to 8 eggs per day and by August 1 the flock had again laid 34 eggs and on the 5 of August 42 eggs were produced, with an average of 35 eggs per day for the first 27 days of August. The flock culled on the 28. The birds were divided into three classes, 30 No. 1, 21 No. 2 and 28 culls. Another flock of White Wyandottes kept on the same farm and fed separately by Ora Huff showed 61 No. 1, 80 No. 2, and 58 culls for a total of 199 hens.

Mr. Huff stated emphatically that after having fed the same special feed that his daughter-in-law had fed, it surely pays to feed hens in the summer.

That culling hens regularly and systematically is a paying proposition for the farmer is demonstrated by the experience of Howard McMullen, who conducted a Purdue University poultry demonstration farm in Delaware County. The McMullens have a flock of Single Comb White Leghorns and started culling five years ago. The next year Mrs. McMullen began keeping egg records and found that her flock of 200 birds laid an average of 125 eggs per year. The next year a somewhat larger flock averaged 142 eggs for the year and last year a yield of 150 eggs per bird for a flock of 325 hens was secured. For the six months period ending July 31, 1923, an average of 110 eggs per bird has been produced and it is expected for the year, not less than 170 eggs per bird will be reached. Incidentally, a debt of about $3,000 thousand dollars has been paid off by the hens on this farm within the last three years. The McMullens are justly proud of their flock of hens.

Three years ago, Dearborn County began testing cattle for tuberculosis with the object of cleaning up the entire county. This work has now been accomplished. In round numbers about 17,000 head have been tested. There are only a few herd owners in the county who have refused to have their cattle tested and these herds are placed under quarantine as a means of protection for the rest of the county. Under the Modified Tuberculosis Free Area plan, Dearborn County has been claimed a Modified Free Area will for a period of three years. It probable expected that all cattle coming into the county will have been properly tested by an accredited veter-

The Purdue University Horticultural Society will hold its annual fall Horticultural Show, at the Purdue Green Houses Nov. 2, 3, and 4. The special features of the show will be the fruit, flower and vegetable exhibits.

The vegetable gardening classes have tried in every instance to choose exhibits which would be interesting, practical and educational. First on the list is the rat exhibit which furnishes a living proof of the abundance of vitamins in vegetables. The slogan, eat more vegetables and enjoy better health, is driven home with force in this feeding experiment.

BEST PLAN FOR HOG FATTENING SHOWN

As Ration Developed Best Hogs,
Purdue Station Proves

RESULTS AT SWINE SHOW

Hogs Were Examined From Two Trials In Which Spring Pigs Were
Fattened From 75 To 220 Pounds

The corn-soybean-mineral ration developed by Purdue University Agricultural Experiment Station again proved its worth as a fattening ration for hogs as witnessed by 400 farmers who attended the third annual swine Day held recently at the University.

The average of three trials are reported by C. M. Vestal, in charge of this work with fattening hogs in drylot from a weight of 108 to 233 pounds, showed that the corn-soybean-mineral combination put on an average daily gain of 1.89 pounds at a cost of $6.18 per hundred against the standard corn and tankage rations daily gain of 1.84 pounds at a cost of $6.43. Corn and soybeans alone showed an average daily gain of 1.57 pounds at a cost of $6.52.

In figuring feed cost of gains corn was priced at 84 cents a bushel, soybeans at $1.25 a bushel, tankage at $65 a ton and mineral at 2 cents a pound. On the basis of these figures soybeans were worth $1.12 a bushel without mineral and with it $1.52 a bushel when compared with tankage at $65 a ton.

Hogs were exhibited from two trials in which spring pigs were being fattened from a weight of 75 to 220 pounds. Here the soybean-mineral combination was not quite as valuable as when used for fattening the heavier hogs, but again was more economical than the corn and tankage ration. Ninety days self feeding in drylot gave the following results: corn alone produced an average daily gain of .81 pounds at a cost of $7.50 per hundred; corn and soybeans 1.35 pounds at $5.88; corn soybeans and mineral 1.60 pounds at $5.94; and corn and tankage 1.70 pounds at $6.07. The same rations self fed on alfalfa pasture showed for the corn alone ration a gain of 1.44 pounds daily at a cost of $5.79 per hundred; corn and soybeans 1.46 pounds at $5.58; corn soybeans and mineral 1.65 pounds at $5.66 and corn and tankage 1.76 pounds at $5.94.

202 FULTON FARMERS MAKE SOYBEAN TOUR

Second Annual Field Day Attracts
Big Crowd of Interested Farmers,

The second annual Soybean Field Day was held in Fulton County recently, 202 farmers attending the meetings. The first part of the meeting was at the farm of H. C. Heighway. At this farm a very heavy crop of Manchus soybeans was examined and studied. The greatest interest at this place centered in the machine for cultivating the crop that Mr. Heighway had rigged up. The implement consists of wheels and frame of an old corn cultivator, to which had been attached a beam holding spring toothed gangs, so placed as to cultivate four rows of soybeans at one time. To the beam were attached handles so that the implement could be easily guided by the man operating it. The second part of the meeting was at the farm of Web Beattie in Rochester Township, where the effect of inoculation of the seed on the vigor of the matured crop of hay could be seen. At this field were found alternating rows of beans with a corn planter using dirt for inoculation and leaving the rows 42 inches apart. He then went back over the field, straddling the original rows, thus getting the rows 21 inches apart. On this later planting, some U. S. Department of Agriculture inoculation was used. The government inoculated beans stand out strong and vigorously against the rows that were inoculated with the dirt.

DELIVERY PLAN AIDS DAIRYMEN

Dairymen in a dozen southwestern Indiana counties have sold their cream on a four day delivery plan during the past summer and have been paid a premium of 3 cents per pound butterfat as a result, netting a nice return above the general market price and also improving the quality of the butter turned out by these creameries. The plan has been followed in Posey, Daviess, Gibson, Martin, Greene, Monroe, Sullivan, Knox, Orange, Vanderburg, and Clay counties.

Experimental work conducted at Purdue University showed that butter made from cream marketed at periods no longer than four days apart can score 90 or better providing the cream is properly cooled. During the dairymen's short course last winter at the university the proposal was made that some of the creameries endeavor to get their cream delivered by the producer on a four day basis instead of every week or ten days. The longer delivery period reduced the quality of cream and consequently the quality of butter.

Posey County was selected for the first trial and all creamery men and some producers attended a meeting which was addressed by Purdue men who had worked out the plan. It was put into effect within a short time and was so successful that it was extended to other counties in that part of the state.

Tags on the producers' can give the time of delivery, stamped there by the cream station operator. Then if the can comes back within the four days required, this time also is stamped on a new tag is issued with the time on it, and in this way an exact record is kept on the date of delivery by each farmer. The premium is not paid unless the cream comes within the required time and is free from objectionable flavors and odors. The plan is proving profitable alike to producers and manufacturers and will be extended to other counties.

This has become known as the Indiana plan and is being followed in Ohio and Illinois.

Demonstration Showing How to Eradicate Cockle

A unique demonstration of eradicating cockle before it gets a start is being conducted by Jackson County farmers, where the seed wheat is being cleaned on a community basis by the use of a disc separator, a machine that involves a new principle in seed cleaning.

The demonstration is being conducted by County Agent Willis Stall in co-operation with the Purdue University Agricultural Extension Department. The disc separator has been installed at the Farmer's Co-operative Elevator at Brownstown and during the month of September, 81 farmers cleaned nearly 2000 bushels of seed wheat from which nearly 200 bushels of cockle, cracked wheat and foreign material was removed. Brownstown is in the heart of a district badly infected with cockle. The farmers who have taken advantage of this opportunity are so enthusiastic over the results secured that one man lives 20 miles from Brownstown made a second trip in order to have all his seed wheat cleaned.

The seed is first put thru a fanning mill after which it is cleaned by the separator, which removes cockle, cheat, cracked grains etc., that can be taken out by no other known method. Many of the farmers are planning on using the clean seed at the rate of a bushel and a peck per acre instead of the customary bushel and a half per acre. According to Harry Lucas manager of the Elevator the cleaning process raises the test weight per bushel from one to three pounds. Purdue authorities believe that the use of the clean seed for three or four years will insure freedom from cockle seeds in the soil either ger-

herds comply strictly with the terms of the quarantine. Dearborn is the first county of the state to eradicate tuberculosis and become a Modified Free Area. This is largely due to the leadership and cooperation of M. C. Johnston, President of the Livestock Association and also cooperation of the Farm Federation officials and the farmers plan, all the farmers in Dearborn county will be given by packers a ten-cent premium per hundred pounds on all pork produced in that county.

rolled oats, semi-solid buttermilk and water, using one part semisolid buttermilk and 15 parts water, with enough rolled oats to make a thick slop. When the pigs were four months old soaked, ground wheat was added to the slop. The wheat was gradually increased and the rolled oats decreased. I fed all the slop the pigs would clean up twice a day, during the entire feeding period.

"In addition to the slop, the litter was self-fed shelled corn from weaning time on. During the last three weeks the corn was soaked. Tankage was also self-fed during the last three weeks, but the pigs did not take much of it. Block salt was kept before the pigs all the time, also a mineral mixture was fed once a week."

The 30 sows on Mr. Meal's farm farrowed 271 pigs last spring, and raised 214 of them, better than seven pigs to the litter. A purebred sire and dam, good rations and clean sanitary quarters made it possible for Mr. Meal to produce this wonderful litter. It's been the same story, with variations, for every ton litter produced this year as well as last year.

Persistent production is very desirable in a dairy cow, but such an animal requires extra attention during the latter part of her lactation. A dairy cow has only two ways to dispose of the feed which she receives, put it on her back or put it in the pail. The real dairy cow does little of the former if she receives the proper kinds of feed. Succulent, juicy feeds and those rich in protein produce most milk, while dry, starchy feeds, such as timothy hay, ear corn and corn fodder are poor milk producers. The only time timothy hay can be called a dairy roughage is when a cow should be dried up. The first step in preparing a cow for her next lactation is to substitute dry roughage for some of the silage and give a grain ration containing less protein. In some cases, silage may have to be withheld entirely and only dry roughage fed.

HOGSETTS'

"The best use for soybeans is for fattening hogs, thus saving the tankage, milk and shorts for the brood sows and growing pigs," said Mr. Vestal in discussing the results. "However, we are growing pigs successfully on the corn-soybean-mineral ration, beginning when the sows are bred.

"The soybean in the ration is especially important not only in Indiana but also throughout the corn belt, as it gives the farmer a protein feed grown on his own farm. All of our experiments show that some protein feed is necessary to balance

The experiment station has received hundreds of letters the last few months from all parts of the country asking about the soybean-mineral mixture and also has reports from scores of farmers who have used the ration successfully.

Fred Loew, former Huntington County Agent, now farming in that county, has eradicated a patch of Canada thistle with a thick stand of Grimm alfalfa sowed two years ago. This plan would work on other farms.

GIVES METHOD TO CONTROL RODENTS

Methods Of Control And Directions Given By Expert To Assist In Ridding Farms Of Them

The rodent pests, such as woodchucks, field mice and rats, are a source of great losses to the people of Indiana, every rat, for example, being responsible for a loss of $2.00 according to government authorities. During the past month the U. S. Biological Survey, through Carlisle Carr, has been co-operating with the Purdue University Agricultural Extension Department in organizing and conducting campaigns against these pests in several counties in southern Indiana, including Morgan, Johnson, Dearborn, Washington, Martin, Knox, Gibson and Parke. So successful has been the results that plans are being made for an initial campaign in 1934 to completely exterminate woodchucks or ground hogs in Morgan County.

For the control of woodchucks poison gases are used, while for field mice a poisoned oatmeal bait properly used has given excellent results.

Rats and home mice are among the most destructive rodent pests in Indiana, according to Mr. Carr. They may be best controlled by poisoning with barium carbonate with one of several attractive baits. Mr. Carr offers the following suggestions in poisoning rats and home mice: Three types of bait are available, meat baits such as hamburger and fish, cereal baits such as bread and rolled oats, and vegetables and fruits such as apple and canned corn. Mix one part of barium carbonate, which can be purchased at drug stores, with four parts by weight of the bait. Mix thoroughly, adding water when necessary to make the bait moist. Place a teaspoonful of the bait in a piece of newspaper, enclosing it by bringing the edges of the paper together and twisting. Set these about in places frequented by rats and mice. It is best to place all three types of bait out the first night, the second night altering the selection by using those baits which were eaten and substituting other baits of the same type of the baits least molested. Precautions should be taken to gather up the baits and destroy them. If in a chicken yard for ex-

More than 350 farmers from Michigan, Illinois, Ohio and fifteen northern Indiana counties gathered at W. M. Stauffer's field, near Akron, Ind. (Sept. 27), and proved to their own satisfaction that 400 bushels of potatoes is not an impossibility in Indiana.

The meeting opened by inspection of the fields of Irish Cobbler's Early Ohio and Rural New Yorkers planted from certified seed. Dr. Max Gardner of Purdue University Agricultural Experiment Station, emphasized the importance of securing only highest grade certified seed potatoes in order to control the diseases which are causing great losses throughout the state. Certified seed being free from disease gives vigorous plants that produce large crops of high quality potatoes. Prof. S. D. Conner explained that careful experiments had proven that muck potatoes properly fertilized had higher quality than when grown in other types of soil. The use of 500 pounds of 2-12-6 fertilizer on high ground or 200 pounds of muriate of potash and 250 pounds of acid phosphate per acre on muck will give big increase. "Plant the potatoes on the richest pieces of soil on the farm and give it good care to get big yields," said Prof. Conner.

Mr. Stauffer, in speaking attributed his success to certified seed and properly fertilized soil, plus use of large size seed pieces and then following up with best cultural practices.

At noon a big chicken and potato dinner was served followed by talks by H. R. Smalley of Soils Improvement Committee National Fertilizer Association, Tom Buell, President, Michigan Potato Producers Association and Director G. I. Christie of the Purdue Experiment Station.

were fed all they would consume of a prepared ration which contained all the elements necessary for health except vitamins. Six of the twelve received in addition to this food,

all the ripe tomatoes that they would eat. The six receiving no tomatoes are undersized and already show signs of ill health, including the eye disease, Xerophthalmia, due to lack of vitamin A. By November 2 the results should be very outstanding and well worth seeing.

Another interesting feature of the show will be the canning exhibit. The vegetables used in the various canned products will be displayed near the canned goods, along with a brief statement of the extent of the canning industry in Indiana and in the United States. It will be especially interesting to see how Indiana ranks among other states in the production of canned foods.

Another exhibit will show the Vegetables which are in season during the various months of the year. In addition to the foregoing the vegetable variety exhibits will attract considerable attention. This exhibit will show kinds and varieties of vegetables which are in season during the various months of the year. In addition to the foregoing the vegetable variety exhibit will attract considerable attention. This exhibit will show kinds and varieties of vegetables from all over the United States. The exhibit of seasonable California vegetables will be of considerable interest.
